Death and Dying John F. Szabo, 2009-11-02 While it can be traced to the 1700s the term thanatology has gained traction in recent decades to refer to the study of death Because of the breadth of the published material and the challenges of discovery in large bibliographic databases and catalogs finding and identifying monographic material on death dying grief and bereavement can be extremely challenging Although there have been several bibliographical resources published on thanatology those titles were incomplete limited in scope or leaned heavily toward one area of the field In Death and Dying An Annotated Bibliography of the Thanatological Literature John F Szabo provides more than 2 200 citations of monographs on the science and study of death and dying Among the areas this volume addresses are the psychological philosophical and attitudinal aspects coping and dealing with the burdens of caregiving and working in the helping professions instructional and educational topics for practitioners primarily health care providers cultural differences in bereavement rituals and grief mourning and loss In addition notable titles on or relating to death and dying in popular culture death themes in literature methods of death or specific ethical policy or public issues are also included when they contribute important information to subject areas on which the book focuses This book will be helpful to students researchers academics caregivers health care professionals psychologists social workers and anyone with an interest in death dying bereavement or the care of the terminally ill Restorative Gardens Nancy Gerlach-Spriggs, Richard Enoch Kaufman, Sam Bass Warner, 1998-01-01

Restorative gardens for the sick which were a vital part of the healing process from the Middle Ages to the early twentieth century provided ordered and beautiful settings in which patients could begin to heal both physically and mentally In this engaging book a landscape architect a physician and a historian examine the history and role of restorative gardens to show why it is important to again integrate nature into the institutional and largely factorylike settings of modern health care facilities In this unique book Nancy Gerlach Spriggs Dr Richard Enoch Kaufman and Sam Bass Warner Jr unfold their argument by presenting the history of restorative gardens and studies of six American health care centers that cherish the role of their gardens in the therapeutic process These institutions are examined in detail community hospitals in Wausau Wisconsin and Monterey California a full care mental institution in Philadelphia a nursing home in Queens a facility for rehabilitative medicine in New York City and a hospice in Houston In their comprehensive review the authors suggest that contemporary scientific understanding clearly recognizes the beneficial physiological effects of garden environments on patients well being The book ends with a plea to make gardens rather than the shopping mall atria so often seen in newly renovated hospitals a vital part of the medical milieu
