Excerpt from The Gilded Man A Romance of the Andes Two dreams have persistently haunted the imagination of man since dreams began You find them in all mythologies and perhaps most dramatically in the Arabian Nights the dream of the Water of Immortality and the dream of the Golden City Within recent times that is during the sixteenth century both were lifted out of the region of fairy lore and men as far from dreamers in the ordinary sense as the conquistador Ponce de Leon and Sir Walter Raleigh raised them into the sphere of something like Elizabethan practical politics Whether or not Ponce de Leon did actually discover the Fountain of Eternal Youth on the Bimini Islands concerns us but incidentally here At all events he seems to have died without drinking of it as death on the scaffold was the penalty for Raleigh s failure to discover El Dorado So practically had the courts of Elizabeth and James regarded the dream of the Golden City and so firm had been Raleigh s own belief in it Though Raleigh s name is most conspicuously and tragically connected with it of course it had been Spanish adventurers for several generations before exploring that Spanish Main which they had already and in romance forever made their own who had given that dream its local habitation and its name About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
