ill wind indeed that does not blow an advantage to somebody The fundamental truths of these ancient saws were fully realized by the people Of Chance Along Ships went down in battered fragments to their clashing sea graves which was bad Heaven knows for the crews and the owners but ashore stalwart and gratified folk who had noted the storms and the tides ate well and drank deep and went warmly clad who might otherwise have felt the gnawing of hunger and the nip of the wind About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The harbor master Theodore Goodridge Roberts, The Harbor Master Theodore Goodridge Roberts, 2015-05-18 At the back of a deep cleft in the formidable cliffs somewhere between Cape Race to the southward and St John s to the northward hides the little hamlet of Chance Along As to its geographical position this is sufficient In the green sea in front of the cleft and almost closing the mouth of it lie a number of great boulders as if the breach in the solid cliff had been made by some giant force that had broken and dragged forth the primeval rock only to leave the refuse of its toil to lie forever in the edge of the tide to fret the gnawing currents At low tide a narrow strip of black shingle shows between the nearer of these titanic fragments and the face of the cliff The force has been at work at other points of the coast as well A mile or so to the north it has broken down and scattered seaward a great section of the cliff scarring the water with a hundred jagged menaces to navigation and leaving behind it a torn sea front and a wide uneven beach About three miles to the south of the little hidden village it has wrought similar havoc long forgotten ages ago
