Taylor, 1990 This book details the classic saga of conflict between labor and management occasioned by the many attempts of the United Mine Workers of America to organize Harlan s miners during the New Deal Era Harlan County Kentucky was the last major anti union bastion in the Appalachian coalfield The story of the organization of the county s coal mines by the United Mine Workers of America is largely confined to the decade of the 1930 s The most serious union campaigns occurred in 1931-32 after the passage of the National Industrial Recovery Act in 1933 and following the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act in 1935 Finally after almost a decade of labor strife the Federal Government intervened following the Supreme Court decision in the case N L R B v Jones Laughlin Steel Corporation 301 U S 1 on April 12 1937 which upheld the National Labor Relations Act After a year of federal inquiry culminating in the Mary Helen conspiracy trial at London Kentucky Harlan s miners could join the UMWA openly and without fear of recrimination
