developed in North America and Europe is due to the fact that psychotherapy research societies in Latin America were organized by psychotherapists. This has created the identity of the psychotherapist researcher, a dual identity that entails the notion that psychotherapy research requires a qualitative dimension to make research a part of clinical practice and clinician identity regardless of their theoretical/technical orientations. This contributed volume aims to provide the reader an overview of the main qualitative methods developed by these psychotherapist researchers. Qualitative Research in Clinical Psychology and Psychotherapy in Latin America: Creativity for Studying Complex Objects in Context will be of interest to both researchers and practitioners in the fields of clinical psychology and psychotherapy interested in methodologies that can contribute to the organic incorporation of research into clinical practice and to the study of complex objects in context. Some chapters in this book were originally written in Spanish and translated into English with the help of artificial intelligence. A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content.

Becoming a Successful Early Career Researcher
Adrian Eley, Jerry Wellington, Stephanie Pitts, Catherine Biggs, 2012-08-21

Not that long ago there were fairly clear divisions between researchers at different stages throughout their career starting with doctoral students then progressing to postdoctoral workers and finishing with academic staff. However, more recently the term Early Career Researcher (ECR) has been introduced, partly as a response to their growing importance which has been reflected by their increased respect and status shown by national/international and funding bodies. There are several common features of an ECR's job including the need to establish a professional identity and develop into an independent researcher competing for grants and increasing one's output of research publications. This book offers proven practical advice to help ECRs kick-start a successful academic career. With advice on: Choosing research topics; Making best use of a Research Supervisor/Mentor; Developing your research writing; Getting published in journals and books; Writing a research grant/fellowship; Becoming a supervisor; Becoming a teacher; and Developing your career. This guide will help academics at the start of their career, no matter what discipline they are engaged in: Arts, Humanities, Sciences, or Social Sciences. For example, in sciences and engineering, ECRs are commonly part of a large research team and often have to work in collaborative groups requiring strong interpersonal skills but can lead to tension in the interaction with one's supervisor or mentor. In contrast, in the arts and humanities and perhaps the social sciences, an ECR is more likely to be an independent scholar with a requirement to work alone, leading to a different type of relationship but not necessarily any less stressful with one's supervisor or mentor. Using case studies from across the subject areas to illustrate key points and give suitable examples, this vital guide will help all early career academics.

The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and suspenseful novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
