Urbanization In Socialist Countries:

Urbanization in socialist countries Jiří Musil, 1980 Urbanization in Socialist Countries Jiri Musil, 2017-10-30
Originally published in 1980 Urbanization in Socialist Countries addresses the complex situation in urban policy development in European Socialist countries. The book examines the urban policy situation in eight countries and provides an analytical framework that addresses the fundamental issues they have faced. The book focuses on the system of settlement and on such problems as its regulation as well as analysis of the goals, instruments and techniques used in planning the urbanization process in different socialist countries. The book aims to throw light on the basic premises underlying the formulation of urbanization concepts and reveal their main features and lines of development.

Cities After Socialism Gregory Andrusz, Michael Harloe, Ivan Szelenyi, 2011-08-10
Cities After Socialism is the first substantial and authoritative analysis of the role of cities in the transition to capitalism that is occurring in the former communist states of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. It will be of equal value to urban specialists and to those who have a more general interest in the most dramatic socio-political event of the contemporary era: the collapse of state socialism. Written by an international group of leading experts in the field, Cities after socialism asks and answers some crucial questions about the nature of the emergent post-socialist urban system and the conflicts and inequalities which are being generated by the processes of change now occurring.

Urbanization Under Socialism K. J. Kinsky, 1976 Urbanisation in the Socialist Countries Pearse Murray, 1981

Transnationalism in the Global City Gerry Boucher, Annette Grindsted, Trinidad L. Vicente, 2012-03-09
This volume is a continuation of the EDMIDI series on Migration, Identities and Diversity. It addresses the research topic of transnationalism in global cities from a European perspective. The volume is based on the idea that the study of migration in urban areas should not only be confined to social problems but that urban areas should also be seen as a strategic site for understanding new trends that reconfigure social order, inequality and conflict.

Chinas Limited Urbanization Li Zhang, 2004
Under urbanisation defined as the achievement of a high industrial growth without a parallel growth of urban population is one of the profound features of socialist development. Under urbanisation in China in effect represents a seriously distorted relationship between urbanisation process and economic development as conventionally understood on the basis of well documented Western experience. In an attempt to theorise the Chinese urbanisation experience, scholars often treat it simply as a by-product of restricted migration policies driven by the overall strategy of industrialisation. In contrast to the thrust of the extant influential literature on urbanisation in the context of socialist economies where industrialisation strategies alone are taken as fundamental in explaining what we find evolving through time, this book has focused rather on systemic characteristics that have not received the thorough treatment already given the strategies of industrialisation. From a perspective of political economy to analyse the impacts of economic system requirements on urbanisation, this study argues that the root cause of Chinese under urbanisation is systemic in which state controls and the state biased nature play a decisive role

Internal Migration Alan A. Brown, Egon Neuberger, 2014-05-10 Internal Migration A Comparative Perspective is the third in a series of publications sponsored by the Committee on Comparative Urban Economics This book highlights the integral migration in several regions of the world and the problems in regions of varying levels of economic development and with different economic systems This text is organized into five parts encompassing 24 chapters The introductory part describes the interactions between migration and socioeconomic development along with the functions and dynamics of the migration process The next part explores the methodological aspects of migration including the models measurements and theoretical reflections of internal migration Other parts discuss the effect of migration on regions and individuals These chapters also present some case studies of internal migration in the West and Eastern Europe The demographic effect of migration on an urban population the ethnicity as a barrier to migration and the influence of social and geographical mobility on the stability of kinship systems are reviewed The concluding part relates a comparative disciplinary and systemic view of migration This book will be of great value to economists sociologists and social workers

Urban Anthropology in China Gregory Eliyu Guldin, Aidan Southall, 2023-07-24 This book is based on the papers that were presented at the First International Urban Anthropology Conference which was opened in Beijing on December 28 1989 It contains twenty two papers and six introductory contributions dealing with the following subjects Comparative Urbanism Socialist and Asian Cities Chinese Urbanization Chinese Urban Ethnicity Chinese Urban Culture and Life Cycle These papers are written by Chinese and non Chinese authors The conference of 1989 1990 marked the beginning of urban anthropology in China Before this the objects of ethnological sociological and anthropological research in China were rural rather than urban Besides the attention of scholars was mostly directed towards the ethnic minorities in China In the late 1970 s however contacts with Western anthropologists helped in redirecting part of Chinese anthropology towards the study of urban conglomerations The congress of 1989 90 marked the acceptance of this new approach in China

Annual Report on Urban Development of China 2013 Jiahua Pan, Houkai Wei, 2015-04-14 This book focuses on China s urban development In China the process of allowing more rural migrants to become registered city residents in urban areas remains stagnant despite its importance to the Chinese government and the existence of a national consensus about it Cities can compulsorily purchase land from farmers at low or even no costs and most farmers whose families have relied on the land to make a living for generations do not profit from increases in land value Breaking down the established distributive system of rights and privileges requires legislation and law enforcement To this end we need to break through the current pattern of interests and respect the citizenization relevant rights of rural migrant workers

Urbanization and Settlement Systems Larry S. Bourne, Robert Sinclair, Kazimierz Dziewoński, 1984

Industrial structure, urbanization, and growth strategy of socialist countries Gur Ofer, 1974

China's Urban Space Terry McGee, George C.S. Lin, Mark Wang, Andrew Marton, Jiaping Wu, 2007-10-18 China s urban growth is unparalleled in the history of global urbanization and will undoubtedly create huge challenges to China as it modernizes its society Adopting an interdisciplinary approach this book presents an overview of the radical transformation of China s urban space since the 1970s arguing that to study the Chinese urbanization process one must recognize the distinctive political economy of China After a long period as a planned socialist economy China s rapid entry into the global economy has raised suggestions that modernization in China will inevitably result in urban patterns and features like those of cities in developed market economies This book argues that this is unlikely in the short term because processes of urban transition in China must be interpreted through the lens of a unique and unprecedented juxtaposition of socialism and the market economy which is leading to distinctive patterns of Chinese urbanization Richly illustrated with maps diagrams and in depth case studies this book will be an invaluable resource to students and scholars of urban economics and policy geography and the development of China

Focus on Urbanization

Trends Laura M. De Smet,2009 Urbanisation refers to a process in which an increasing proportion of an entire population lives in cities and the suburbs of cities Historically it has been closely connected with industrialisation When more and more inanimate sources of energy were used to enhance human productivity industrialisation surpluses increased in both agriculture and industry Larger and larger proportions of a population could live in cities Economic forces were such that cities became the ideal places to locate factories and their workers As the 21st century heats up the rate pace and complications posed by urbanisation continue unabated This new book presents the latest research in the field

The

Post-Socialist City Kiril Stanilov,2007-08-13 In the large body of literature produced during the last fifteen years on the transformation of Eastern European societies after the fall of communism studies investigating changes in urban form and structure have been quite rare Yet a profound reorganization of the manner in which urban space is appropriated has taken place impacting the life of over 200 million urban residents in the region The patterns of spatial organization which have been established during this fairly limited but critical timeframe are likely to set the direction of future urban development in CEE cities for a long time This book focuses on the spatial transformations in the most dynamically evolving urban areas of post socialist Central and Eastern Europe linking the restructuring of the built environment with the underlying processes and forces of socio economic reforms We hope that the detailed accounts of the spatial transformations in a key moment of urban history in the region will enhance our understanding of the linkages between society and space adding to the knowledge that is needed for resolving the difficult challenges facing cities throughout the globe in the beginning of the twenty first century
