Norland, 1995-01-01 A time of great changes after nearly a century of foreign wars and civil strife the Tudor era witnessed a significant transformation of dramatic art Medieval traditions were modified by the forces of humanism and the Reformation and a renewed interest in classical models inspired experimentation Howard B Norland examines Tudor plays performed between 1485 and 1558 a time when drama reached beyond local popular and religious contexts to treat more varied and more secular concerns culminating in the emergence of comedy and tragedy as major genres The theater also imported dramas from the Continent adapting them to English tastes After establishing the popular dramatic traditions of fifteenth century Britain Norland discusses the critical interpretation of the Latin plays of Terence studied in the schools and the views of influential authors such as Erasmus Vives and More about what drama should be and do The heart of the book is its in depth analyses of individual plays Norland examines the secularization of the morality play in Skelton s Magnificence Bale s King John Republica and Redford s Wit and Science and he traces the changes in comic form from Medwall s Fulgens and Lucre through Calisto and Melebea and Johan Johan to Udall s Roister Doister and Gammer Gurton s Needle The final section examines the first tragedies written in England Watson s Absolom Christopherson s Jephthah and Grimald s Archiphroeta Howard B Norland is a professor of English at the University of Nebraska Lincoln His articles have appeared in Genre Sixteenth Century Journal Fifteenth Century Studies Comparative Drama and Journal of Medieval and Renaissance Studies A Manual Fro the Collector and Amateur of Old English Plays Hazlitt, 1892 Spectacle & image in Renaissance Europe / Spectacle & image dans l'Europe de la Renaissance Andre Lascombes, 2023-08-14 This collection of nineteen essays focuses on the ways in which in England France and Spain the Renaissance made propagandistic or aesthetic use of the image in various spectacles Under surface differences between genres what emerges is a surprising similarity in tactics and response which invites further questioning about image elaboration and its reception Spectacle & Image in Renaissance Europe André Lascombes, 1993 This collection of nineteen essays focuses on the ways in which in England France and Spain the Renaissance made propagandistic or aesthetic use of the image in various spectacles Under surface differences between genres what emerges is a surprising similarity in tactics and response which invites further questioning about image elaboration and its reception The Materiality of Color Andrea Feeser, 2017-07-05 Although much has been written on the aesthetic value of color there are other values that adhere to it with economic and social values among them Through case studies of particular colors and colored objects this volume demonstrates just how complex the history of color is by focusing on the diverse social and cultural meanings of color the trouble pain and suffering behind the production and application of these colors the difficult technical processes for making and applying color and the intricacy of commercial exchanges and

Selfhood on the Early Modern English Stage Pauline Blanc,2009-10-02 The twelve essays in Selfhood on the Early Modern English Stage analyse the influences that shaped the fictional constructs that inhabited the drama of the early modern period The contributors all specialists in the field working in France and England offer a wide spectrum of views and discuss a variety of dramatic texts ranging from late medieval cycle plays and interludes of the Tudor period to plays by Marlowe Shakespeare Tourneur and Jonson The early modern stage self emerges out of this collection as the site of a rich confluence of discursive and historical forces existing beyond the theatre itself Three essays in the first section reveal how abstract figures like Mundus and Mankind gradually became endowed with personal motives and personalizing traits which brought into existence stage beings with a capacity for emotion In the second section three essays deal with specific cultural factors that influenced the representation of selfhood in John Lyly's Alexander in Marlowe's Tamburlaine and in a selection of Stuart court masques presented at Whitehall The third section offers new insights into the composition of Hamlet as a dramatized personality the fourth investigates the way in which the poet playwright's autobiographical impulses may have helped in the construction of early modern stage selves the final fifth section explores the kaleidoscopic sources of the royal protagonists in Rowley's When You See Me You Know Me and Shakespeare's Richard III This collection of essays seeks to add a further contribution to the growing body of criticism that investigates the multi-faceted multi-layered construction of early modern subjectivity
