Neighborhood and Ancestry Jonathan Owens, 1998-12-15 Over the past 35 years urban sociolinguistics has developed upon the base of detailed case studies carried out mainly in western countries A fundamental dichotomy informing the interpretation of variation has been carried out within what is termed the standard vernacular model Higher vs lower social class power vs solidarity open networks vs closed networks are a few of the conceptual dyads which have been invoked to order linguistic variation operating with an input from a standard vernacular source The present study based on the spoken Arabic of Maiduguri Nigeria focuses on a linguistic landscape where the notions of standard and vernacular are of little relevance in ordering urban linguistic variants It is argued that linguistic variation is best conceptualized and ordered in terms of the twin variables of neighborhood and ancestral norms A detailed analysis of 13 linguistic variables based on a corpus of about 500 000 words invokes an urban linguistic world different from that in the West To integrate this landscape into current sociolinguistic thinking a typology of urban variation is outlined using familiar yet relatively unutilized sociolinguistic parameters neighborhood ancestry minority status and institutionalization
