The Materiality of Writing Christian Mosbæk Johannessen, Theo van Leeuwen, 2017-09-18 This book examines the materiality of writing It adopts a multimodal approach to argue that writing as we know it is only a small part of the myriad gestures we make practices we engage in and media we use in the process of trace making Taking a broad view of the act of writing the volume features contributions from both established and up and coming scholars from around the world and incorporates a range of methodological and theoretical perspectives from fields such as linguistics philosophy psychology of perception design and semiotics This interdisciplinary framework allows readers to see the relationships between writing and other forms of trace making including architectural drawings graphic shapes and commercial logos and between writing and reading with a number of illustrations highlighting the visual data used in the forms and studies discussed The book also looks forward to the future discussing digital media and new technology and their implications for trace making This pioneering volume will be of interest to scholars and researchers in multimodality literacy cognitive neuroscience design theory discourse analysis and applied linguistics

The "I" and the "Eye" Pragnan Rath, 2011-05-25 The paradigmatic moment of the opposition between the verbal and the visual arts may be seen in Lessing's treatise on the Laocöon sculptural group written in 1766 a moment that is identified within a historical framework of modern aesthetics that begins

Duras, Writing, and the Ethical Martin Crowley, 2000 This book offers a study of the whole of Duras's written oeuvre covering journalism and lesser known works as well as more famous texts It brings out the constant presence of ethical questions in and around the experiences of passion and excess with which her work is always concerned and subjects Duras's texts to an unprecedented level of close reading carrying her beyond the terms of her usual reception On the basis of this approach and with reference to Duras's involvement with her intellectual and political contexts the book demonstrates the detailed engagement of Duras's writing in the ethical and political issues of her day Careful textual analysis shows the particular fragile nature of this engagement as well as the intricate textures of Duras's work this leads to a striking new model of the relation between the literary text and the ethical life of its readers which will be of importance not only to specialists in French Studies but to all those interested in ethical criticism and modern literary studies Making Tim Ingold, 2013-04-12 Making creates knowledge builds environments and transforms lives Anthropology archaeology art and architecture are all ways of making and all are dedicated to exploring the conditions and potentials of human life In this exciting book Tim Ingold ties the four disciplines together in a way that has never been attempted before In a radical departure from conventional studies that treat art and architecture as compendia of objects for analysis Ingold proposes an anthropology and archaeology not of but with art and architecture He advocates a way of thinking through making in which sentient practitioners and active materials continually answer to or correspond with one another in the generation of form Making offers a series of profound reflections on what it means to create things on materials and form the meaning of design landscape perception animate life personal knowledge and the work of the hand It draws on examples and experiments ranging from prehistoric stone tool making to the building of medieval cathedrals from round mounds to monuments from flying kites to winding string from drawing to writing The book will appeal to students and practitioners alike with interests in social and cultural anthropology archaeology architecture art and design visual studies and material culture Cultural Graphology Juliet Fleming, 2018-05-02 Cultural Graphology could be the name of a new human science this was Derrida's speculation when in the late 1960s he imagined a discipline that combined psychoanalysis deconstruction and a commitment to the topic of writing He never undertook the project himself but did leave two brief sketches of how he thought cultural graphology might proceed In this book Juliet Fleming picks up where Derrida left off Using both his early and later thought and the psychoanalytic texts to which it is addressed to examine the print culture of early modern England she drastically unsettles some key assumptions of book history Fleming shows that the single most important lesson to survive from Derrida's early work is that we do not know what writing is Channeling Derrida's thought into places it has not been seen before she examines printed errors spaces and ornaments topics that have hitherto been marginal to our accounts of print culture and excavates the long forgotten reading practice of cutting printed books Proposing radical deformations to the meanings of fundamental and apparently simple terms such as error letter surface and cut Fleming opens up exciting new pathways into our understanding of writing all told Arts & Humanities Citation Index, 1987 A multidisciplinary index covering the journal literature of the arts and humanities It fully covers 1 144 of the world's leading arts and humanities journals and it indexes individually selected relevant items from over 6 800 major science and social science journals Untitled Passages by Henri Michaux Henri Michaux, Raymond Bellour, Florian Rodari, 2000 Text by Laurent Jenny was translated by Alyson Waters texts by Florian Rodari and Raymond Bellour were translated by Christine Schmiedel and Richard Sieburth P 250 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1979 The French Joyce Geert Lernout, 1990 A major contribution to James Joyce studies as well as a historical review of the French intellectual climate since the 1960s Australian Journal of French Studies, 1987 The French Short Story Phillip Crant, 1975 The Poetics of
