Clark, Fall term at Fenton Academy had begun Dick Randall came slowly down the dormitory steps then stopped and stood hesitating as if doubtful which way to turn Uncertainty indeed was uppermost in his mind He felt confused and out of place in his new surroundings like a stranger in a strange land The day was dark and gloomy The sky was overcast and the afternoon sun shone halfheartedly from behind the clouds A fresh breeze bent the trees in the quadrangle scattering a shower of leaves about the yard In spite of himself Dick felt his spirits flag A thousand miles lay between him and home and except for a few brief visits made close at hand this was his first real venture into the world Unaccustomed to the change unacquainted with his classmates with the steady routine of work and play not yet begun he was wretchedly homesick and strive as he would he could not keep his thoughts for five minutes together from his father and mother and the white walled farm house on the slope of the mountain looking down over the valley and the meadowland below He felt ashamed and disgusted with himself for he was no longer a kid he was almost seventeen and big and strong for his age and yet fight it as he might the longing for home would not down Thus he stood dreaming gazing unseeingly across the yard until presently with a start he came to himself A friendly hand smote him between the shoulder blades a friendly arm was drawn through his and he turned to meet the somewhat quizzical glance of his classmate and next door neighbor in the dormitory Harry Allen Instinctively Dick smiled He had sat next to Allen at supper the night before and had taken a liking to him from the start Allen had chattered away steadily all through the meal yet his talk had been unaffected entertaining and wholly free from any effort at trying to be funny or showing off He was Randall's opposite in every way as slight and frail as Dick was big and broad shouldered as light as Dick was dark and apparently at the present moment as cheerful as Dick was depressed Well Randall he asked what you got on your mind Composing a speech Feeding the Young Athlete Cynthia Lair, Scott Murdoch, 2002 Strength and Conditioning for Young Athletes Rhodri Lloyd, Jon Oliver, 2019-08-16 Strength and Conditioning for Young Athletes Science and Application offers an evidence based introduction to the theory and practice of strength and conditioning for young athletes Fully revised and updated this second edition draws on leading research to offer a holistic approach to training centred on the concept of long term athletic development and the welfare of the young athlete With 20 new authors and 8 new chapters the book explores every key topic in strength and conditioning applied to young athletes including Growth and maturation Talent identification and talent development Monitoring and assessment Coaching young athletes Motor skill development Strength development and plyometrics Speed and agility development Metabolic conditioning Mobility and flexibility Periodisation and nutritional strategies Injury prevention and wellbeing Developing a holistic programme for young athletes Written by a team of leading international strength and conditioning experts and paediatric sport scientists the book includes expanded practical guidelines in every chapter to show how the latest scientific research can be applied by coaches to optimise young athletic potential Including sample training programmes and exercises throughout this is an essential resource for all students of strength and conditioning or paediatric exercise science as well as any coach and athletic trainer working with children and young people
