

Thank You

In words of gratitude, I send my heart's grace, For every smile, every kind embrace. Your presence brightens every day, In countless ways, you light the way.

For all the moments shared in laughter, For lifting spirits, now and after, For every deed, big or small, Thank you for being there through it all.

With heartfelt thanks, I express, For your kindness, I am blessed. You make the world a better place, Your kindness shines with endless grace.

So here's my humble, heartfelt token, A thank you, never to be unspoken. For all you do, in every way, Thank you for brightening my day.

Making History Happen Derrilyn E. Morrison, 2015-10-05 Making History Happen Caribbean Poetry in America examines Lorna Goodison's Turn Thanks 1999 McCallum's The Water Between Us 1999 and Claudia Rankine's Plot 2001 and Don't Let Me Be Lonely 2004 Engaging familiar themes and issues of time language and identity the readings focus on Signifying moments in the works of the poets under discussion Reflecting on some of the ways that transnational women poets of the black diaspora are using tropes of mobility to create a renewed sense of identity and a sense of belonging to a communal network the readings also demonstrate that the project of re-writing individual self identity in light of one's expanding consciousness or awareness of the other is more urgent and more demandingly realistic in contemporary poetry written by women poets who occupy transnational spaces In these works re memory becomes a process that transforms the gathering of memory reflecting the interrelatedness of communal and individual subjective identities Rankine's poetry collections are used to close the discourse in this book for the call they make An intriguing crossing of genres their structural use of time and space reflects the stylistic inventiveness that has become a hallmark of transnational poets of the black diaspora In its transformation of language and of images that remain open ended in their meanings Don't Let Me Be Lonely fuses poetry dialogue and prose with images from television and other forms of communication media to create a poetic collection that is relentless in its confrontation with the way we make cultural meanings The collection of essays in this book calls attention to an emerging poetic body of Caribbean writing in America that requires naming for it is new
