Xhosa for Second-language Learners Alexandra Bryant, 2007      Literacy and Democracy in South African Primary Schools Getahun Yacob Abraham, Mary Alice Barksdale, 2017-12-20 Literacy and Democracy in South African Primary Schools presents findings based on two research projects conducted in South African primary schools during the same time frame Working from the South African Foundation Phase curriculum that was introduced in 2009 the first project focused on the introduction of leadership qualities and the election of classroom representatives in 3rd grade classes in four elementary schools The other introduced process based writing to teachers and researched the process and products of children s stories The book describes research experiences from the field provides a brief overview of the history of the South African education system and looks ahead to the future transformation of global educational systems      Suid-Afrikaanse tydskrif vir Afrikatale ,1993      Literatures in African Languages B. W. Andrzejewski, S. Pilaszewicz, W. Tyloch, 1985-11-21 Although African literatures in English and French are widely known outside Africa those in the African languages themselves have not received comparable attention In this book a number have been selected for survey by fourteen specialist writers providing the reader with an introduction to this very wide field and a body of reference material which includes extensive bibliographies and biographical information on African authors Theoretical issues such as genre divisions are discussed in the essays and the historical social and political forces at work in the creation and reception of African literature are examined Literature is treated as an art whose medium is language so that both the oral and written forms are encompassed This book will be of value not only to readers concerned with the cultures of Africa but to all those with an interest in the literary phenomena of the world in general

Stranger at Home Ashlee Nesor, 2011-05 This book is about the poetry vision and deeply inhospitable context of one of South Africa's most talented praise poets The praise poet imbongi is a familiar cultural icon in contemporary South Africa Public events as diverse as presidential inaugurations openings of parliament fashion shows and boxing contests begin with the rousing declamations of charismatic imbongi Yet until the institution of majority rule praise poets who sought to shock their audiences with dangerous truths could claim none of the prestige enjoyed by their present day counterparts Under apartheid many praise poets either ceased to perform or abandoned the imbongi's duty to diagnose and criticize political and social ills There was however one brilliant Xhosa imbongi called David Manisi a poet widely acclaimed in his youth as the successor to the great SEK Mqhayi who refused to capitulate to the ease of silence or complicity As documented by Jeff Opland in The Dassist and the Hunter UKZN Press Manisi worked tirelessly and in embattled contexts to address his audiences with demands criticisms and aspirations they frequently misunderstood The author of five volumes of Xhosa poetry and performer of inspired and elegantly crafted izibongo praise poems Manisi saw himself as a man of multiple places allegiances and identities at a time when these markers of self were rigidly policed Manisi's entrance on the local Transkeian poetry scene was legendary He was for a time the most famous poet in Kaiser Mathanzima's court He also wrote the first published poem about Nelson Mandela in 1954 hailing him prophetically as Gleaming Road Despite these early accomplishments Manisi ended his career as a lonely performer in American and South African universities He never met Mandela his hero of old Ashlee Nesor examines Manisi as an inventive negotiator of rural and urban spaces modernity and tradition performance and publication the local and the foreign
