Social Relations And Human Attributes:

Social Relations and Human Attributes Paul Q. Hirst, Penny Woolley, 1982 An examination of the organization of human relations within society includes discussions of the history of attitudes toward mental illness and the interaction between biology and culture Human Traits and Their Social Significance Irwin Edman, 1919 Sociable Robots and the Future of Social Relations Raul Hakli, Marco Nørskov, 2014-12-15 The robotics industry is growing rapidly and to a large extent the development of this market sector is due to the area of social robotics the production of robots that are designed to enter the space of human social interaction both physically and semantically Since social robots present a new type of social agent they have been aptly classified as a disruptive technology i e the sort of technology which affects the core of our current social practices and might lead to profound cultural and social change Due to its disruptive and innovative potential social robotics raises not only questions about utility ethics and legal aspects but calls for robo philosophy the comprehensive philosophical reflection from the perspectives of all philosophical disciplines This book presents the proceedings of the first conference in this new area Robo Philosophy 2014 Sociable Robots and the Future of Social Relations held in Aarhus Denmark in August 2014 The short papers and abstracts collected here address questions of social robotics from the perspectives of philosophy of mind social ontology ethics meta ethics political philosophy aesthetics intercultural philosophy and metaphilosophy Social robotics is still in its early stages but it is precisely now that we need to reflect its possible cultural repercussions This book is accessible to a wide readership and will be of interest to everyone involved in the development and use of social robotics applications from social roboticists to policy makers Bodies of Thought Ian Burkitt, 1999-07-26 In this incisive and truly impressive book Ian Burkitt critically addresses the dualism between mind and body thought and emotion rationality and irrationality and the mental and the material which haunt the post Cartesian world Drawing on the work of contemporary social theorists and feminist writers he argues that thought and the sense of being a person is inseparable from bodily practices within social relations even though such active experience may be abstracted and expanded upon through the use of symbols Overcoming classic dualisms in social thought Burkitt argues that bodies are not purely the constructs of discourses of power they are also productive communicative and invested with powerful capacities for changing the social and natural worlds He goes on to consider how such powers can be developed in more ethical forms of relations and activities New Perspectives on Human Dignity in Asia Brett G. Scharffs, Hannah Clayson Smith, Emily H. Butler, 2025-12-31 This volume examines the concept of human dignity from uniquely Asian perspectives As the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR celebrates its 75th anniversary human dignity is more consequential than ever yet it is not understood in the same way in every nation or by every culture Here human dignity is approached from a number of distinctive viewpoints its relation to religious freedom in maturing pluralist democracies its foundation in ancient Eastern philosophy its pursuit by liberation movements and its alignment with Buddhism Islam and less familiar Indigenous religions

The authors from various Asian countries bring extensive scholarship and experience to bear on the project of expanding the idea of human dignity. They present a range of perspectives having roots as they do in states with distinct religious and cultural traditions that following the Second World War have evolved toward constitutional democracies as well as states where social and legislative developments related to human dignity have been influenced by more collectivist ideologies. The collection will be of interest to philosophers of law, constitutional and human rights theorists and lawyers, political historians, international law specialists and ethicists and those interested in interfaith dialogue and multifaith engagement.

Computer Vision Yixin Zhu, Song-Chun Zhu, 2026-01-01. This volume on visual commonsense reasoning part of a comprehensive three volume series presents a computational framework for bridging the gap between modern computer vision capabilities and human like visual understanding. While current AI systems excel at pattern recognition tasks they often lack the sophisticated reasoning capabilities that humans demonstrate effortlessly in understanding and interacting with their environment. This work addresses this limitation by integrating physical, social and abstract reasoning within a unified computational framework. The volume is organized into three parts. The first part establishes the theoretical foundations of visual commonsense through a systematic examination of physical understanding including affordances, intuitive physics, causality and tool use. These components form the basis for understanding how objects and environments behave and interact. The second part delves into social reasoning aspects exploring intent, theory of mind and nonverbal communication, crucial capabilities for AI systems to interpret and predict human behavior. The third part investigates abstract visual reasoning examining higher level cognitive capabilities. Drawing from cognitive science, computer vision and artificial intelligence, this work provides a systematic treatment of visual commonsense ranging from foundational theories to practical implementations. Introduces computational frameworks integrating multiple forms of reasoning. Demonstrates applications through extensive examples and case studies. Highlights current challenges and future directions in developing human like visual AI. This carefully crafted volume serves as an invaluable resource for researchers, graduate students and practitioners in computer vision, artificial intelligence, cognitive science and related fields. It offers both theoretical insights and practical guidance for developing AI systems with more sophisticated visual understanding capabilities moving closer to human like visual intelligence.

Human Characteristics Preben Bertelsen, Henrik Høgh-Olesen, Jan Tønnesvang, 2009-01-23. Every once in a while we have to reconsider the perennial questions concerning human nature. What are the special human behaviours, social practices and psychological structures that make us particularly human? The field of evolution, psychology and cognitive science is the most expanding inter disciplinary area of this field for the time being uniting different sciences under the same evolutionary paradigm and keeping them occupied by the same eternal questions stated above. Relevant data and theoretical considerations are piling up but an overview is needed. To facilitate this a large inter disciplinary conference entitled Human Mind Human Kind was held at Aarhus University, Denmark. The studies fall into three well defined sections 1 Evolution and Cognition Comparative and Developmental Perspectives 2 Human Sociality Morality and Religiosity 3 Human Sexuality and Mating Strategies Specifying the differences between our own species and the rest of the animal world always provokes debate But these demarcations simply have to be drawn once and again They focus attention and stimulate research exactly because they provoke and challenge other researchers to take up the glove and prove us wrong
