Stories to Tell the Littlest Ones Sara Cone Bryant, 1916 Nature Stories to Tell to Children H. Waddingham Seers, 1918 Stories Pictures Tell ... Flora Leona Carpenter, 1918 Art supervisors in the public schools assign picture study work in each grade recommending the study of certain pictures by well known masters As Supervisor of Drawing I found that the children enjoyed this work but that the teachers felt incompetent to conduct the lessons as they lacked time to look up the subject and to gather adequate material Recourse to a great many books was necessary and often while much information could usually be found about the artist very little was available about his pictures Hence I began collecting information about the pictures and preparing the lessons for the teachers just as I would give them myself to pupils of their grade My plan does not include many pictures during the year as this is to be only a part of the art work and is not intended to take the place of drawing The lessons in this grade are planned for the usual drawing period of from twenty to thirty minutes and have been given in that time successfully However the most satisfactory way of using the books is as supplementary readers thus permitting each child to study the pictures and read the stories himself Preface The stories they tell me; or, Sue and I. Eleanor Grace O'Reilly, 1873

Stories and Their Limits Hilde Lindemann Nelson, 2014-01-21 Narratives have always played a prominent role in both bioethics and medicine the fields have attracted much storytelling ranging from great literature to humbler stories of sickness and personal histories And all bioethicists work with cases from court cases that shape policy matters to case studies that chronicle sickness But how useful are these various narratives for sorting out moral matters What kind of ethical work can stories do and what are the limits to this work The new essays in Stories and Their Limits offer insightful reflections on the relationship between narratives and ethics Stories of Children's Pain Bernie Carter, Joan Simons, 2014-04-15 Working with a child in pain is difficult unavoidable and especially challenging when the child cannot explain what they are feeling In this important book Bernie Carter and Joan Simons bring together experience evidence and research to deconstruct the topic and present the reality of children s pain Each chapter starts with a personal story from a child a family member or a healthcare professional The stories are drawn from a wealth of original research and focus the reader on the individual child and their family The chapter then goes on to introduce the relevant research theory and implications for practice so health professionals can use the evidence to support compassionate child centred care Among the topics addressed are Ethical dilemmas Assessing pain Working in different settings Inexplicable pain It is valuable reading for any healthcare student or professional working with children of all ages

How to Tell Stories to Children Sara Cone Bryant,1905 The stories which are given in the following pages are for the most part those which I have found to be best liked by the children to whom I have told these and others I have tried to reproduce the form in whihc I actually tell them although that invariably varies with every repetition feeling that it would be of greater value to another story teller than a more closely literary form My hope is that this book may be of use to those who have much to do with children Preface
