Translating Guilt Cassandra Steer, 2017-02-26 This book seeks to understand how and why we should hold leaders responsible for the collective mass atrocities that are committed in times of conflict It attempts to untangle the debates on modes of liability in international criminal law ICL that have become truly complex over the last twenty years and to provide a way to identify the most appropriate model for leadership liability A unique comparative theory of ICL is offered which clarifies the way in which ICL develops as a patchwork of different domestic criminal law notions This theory forms the basis for the comparison of some influential domestic criminal law systems with a view to understanding the policy and cultural reasons for their differences There is a particular focus on the background of the German law which has influenced the International Criminal Court so much recently This helps to understand and seek a solution to the current impasses in the debates on which model of liability should be applied An entire chapter of the book is devoted to considering why leaders should be held responsible for crimes committed by their subordinates from legal moral and pragmatic perspectives The moral responsibility of leaders is translated into criminal liability and the different domestic models of liability are translated to the international context in such a way as to appeal to advanced students of ICL academics and practitioners who want to understand the complexities of leadership liability in international criminal law today and identify the best way to approach it Cassandra Steer is Executive Director of Women in International Security Canada and Junior Wainwright Fellow at McGill University Canada She holds a Ph D in Law from the University of Amsterdam The Netherlands

The Law Reports Great Britain. High Court of Justice. Queen's Bench Division (1880-1901),1909 The American Decisions ,1911 Atlantic Reporter ,1922 The Law Reports ,1892 Fair Opportunity and Responsibility David Owen Brink,2021 Fair Opportunity and Responsibility lies at the intersection of moral psychology and criminal jurisprudence and analyzes responsibility and its relations to desert culpability excuse blame and punishment It links responsibility with the reactive attitudes but makes the justification of the reactive attitudes depend on a prior and independent conception of responsibility Responsibility and excuse are inversely related an agent is responsible for misconduct if and only if it is not excused As a result we can study responsibility by understanding excuses We excuse misconduct when an agent s capacities or opportunities are significantly impaired because these capacities and opportunities are essential if agents are to have a fair opportunity to avoid wrongdoing This conception of excuse tells us that responsibility itself consists in agents having suitable cognitive and volitional capacities normative competence and a fair opportunity to exercise these capacities free from undue interference situational control Because our reactive attitudes and practices presuppose the fair opportunity conception of responsibility this supports a predominantly retributive conception of blame and punishment that treats culpable wrongdoing as the desert basis of blame and punishment We can then apply the fair opportunity framework to assessing responsibility and excuse in circumstances of structural injustice situational influences in ordinary circumstances and in wartime insanity and psychopathy immaturity addiction and crimes of passion Though fair opportunity has important implications for each issue treating them together allows us to explore common themes and appreciate the need to take partial responsibility and excuse seriously in our practices of blame and punishment
