Western Apache English Dictionary:

Western Apache-English Dictionary Dorothy Bray, 1998 This exhaustive bilingual dictionary is the culmination of years of collaboration between educators linguistic scholars and community informants from the White Mountain Apache Tribe It also includes dialectical variants from other communities including the San Carlos Tribe The dictionary has been compiled with the goal of creating a living working dictionary that will be of value for cultural educational and practical purposes Among these are the teaching of Western Apache to children the retention and expansion of the oral and written languages and the preservation of traditional ceremonial songs and oral history More widely the dictionary will be useful to Apaches and non Apaches in practical applications such as medicine social work education and human services It also provides through its definitions a wealth of culture history and lore supplied by the many community informants

English Apache Dictionary, 1893 English Apache vocabulary compiled in 1893 by Johannes Plocher The vocabulary lists words in English from abdomen to Zuni Indians followed by their equivalents in the language of the San Carlos and White Mountain Apache Indians Definitions include sentences in Western Apache illustrating the uses of each word with English translations of the sentences given in red ink Also included are several short glossaries for days of the week local geographical names names of Indian tribes and bands and masculine and feminine Indian names

Atlas of the World's Languages R.E. Asher, Christopher Moseley, 2018-04-19 Before the first appearance of the Atlas of the World's Languages in 1993 all the world's languages had never been accurately and completely mapped The Atlas depicts the location of every known living language including languages on the point of extinction This fully revised edition of the Atlas offers up to date research some from fieldwork in early 2006 a general linguistic history of each section an overview of the genetic relations of the languages in each section statistical and sociolinguistic information a large number of new or completely updated maps further reading and a bibliography for each section a cross referenced language index of over 6 000 languages Presenting contributions from international scholars covering over 6 000 languages and containing over 150 full colour maps the Atlas of the World's Languages is the definitive reference resource for every linguistic and reference library

Studies in Evidentiality Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, R.M.W. Dixon, 2003-02-28 In a number of languages the speaker must specify the evidence for every statement whether seen or heard or inferred from indirect evidence or learnt from someone else This grammatical category referring to information source is called evidentiality Evidentiality systems differ in how complex they are some distinguish just two terms eyewitness and noneyewitness or reported and non reported while others have six or even more terms Evidentiality is a category in its own right and not a subtype of epistemic or some other modality or of tense aspect The introductory chapter sets out cross linguistic parameters for studying evidentiality It is followed by twelve chapters which deal with typologically different languages from various parts of the world Shipibo Conibo Jarawara Tariana and Myky from South America West Greenlandic Eskimo Western Apache and Eastern Pomo from North America Qiang Tibeto Burman
