World Brain:

World Brain H.G. Wells, 2021-08-03 In 1937 H G Wells proposed a predigital freely available World Encyclopedia to represent a civilization saving World Brain In a series of talks and essays in 1937 H G Wells proselytized for what he called a World Brain as manifested in a World Encyclopedia a repository of scientifically established knowledge that would spread enlightenment around the world and lead to world peace Wells known to readers today as the author of The War of the Worlds and other science fiction classics was imagining something like a predigital Wikipedia The World Encyclopedia would provide a summary of verified reality in about forty volumes it would be widely available free of copyright and utilize the latest technology Of course as Bruce Sterling points out in the foreword to this edition of Wells s work the World Brain didn t happen the internet did And yet Wells anticipated aspects of the internet envisioning the World Brain as a technical system of networked knowledge in Sterling s words a hypothetical super gadget Wells s optimism about the power of information might strike readers today as na vely utopian but possibly also inspirational

The Political Economy of Information Vincent Mosco, Janet Wasko, 1988 The information society is real Information as a marketable commodity is quickly taking up the powerful role once held by heavy industry and manufactured products How this revolution is affecting society and how society and government are responding to it is the subject of this book Its lessons and conclusions are of critical importance as we enter the last decade of this century Every dimension of social life whether in the home or the workplace is affected by information and the technologies that give it market value Along with the positive aspects of these broad changes there are inevitable problems the growing gap between the information rich and information poor the need for widespread access to communication and information technology the threat to individual privacy and the potential of the technology to create global instabilities The editors have enlisted specialists and scholars in business communications studies computing and information science economics law library science political science and sociology to examine these changes and problems by looking at information specifically as a commodity to be traded protected and desired

Wallace, 2007-12-30 Knowledge management KM is frequently presented as a recent development born entirely of the business world. However, the intellectual origins of knowledge management are both deeper and broader than have been posited in the literature to date. Influences of philosophy, economics, education, psychology, information and communication theory, and library and information studies have been almost completely overlooked. This book links current and historical works to the development of knowledge management across domains and disciplines to give students and scholars a deeper appreciation of the origins of KM and a better understanding of its intellectual origins, its concepts and principles. Through his thorough and critical examination of historical and more recent classic works, Wallace demystifies this important emerging area of study. An essential and fascinating read for LIS faculty, students, and practitioners. Required reading for courses in Knowledge Management.

Taylor, 2003-09 We live in a moment of unprecedented complexity, an era in which change occurs faster than our ability to comprehend it. With The Moment of Complexity, Mark C. According to Taylor, complexity is not just a breakthrough scientific concept but the defining quality of the post-Cold War era. The flux of digital currents swirling around us, he argues, has created a new network culture with its own distinctive logic and dynamic. The World's Best Essays David Josiah Brewer, 1900 Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance, 1893 The Witness to Immortality in Literature, Philosophy and Life George Angier Gordon, 1893 My Father's Business Charles Edward Jefferson, 1909 New Century Reference Library of the World's Most Important Knowledge, 1909 The World's Best Essays, from the Earliest Period to the Present Time David Josiah Brewer, Edward Archibald Allen, William Schuyler, 1900 Library of the World's Best Literature: A-Z, 1897 Life Beyond Death, Being a Review of the World's Beliefs on the Subject Minot Judson Savage, 1902 The World's Crisis Matrona Angelo Burris, 1905 The world's desires; or, The results of monism Edgar A.
