World Bank Inspection Panel:

The World Bank Inspection Panel Ibrahim F. I. Shihata,1994 In 1993 the World Bank created an Inspection Panel to investigate complaints about its own operations This initiative the first of its kind for an international organization is the subject of this book As general counsel of the World Bank and one of the main architects of the initiative the author is in a unique position to analyze the implications of this step for the World Bank for other international organizations and for international law This is the first book on such a topic and as such it is likely to remain the most authoritative source of information on the subject for years to come

The World Bank's Inspection Panel Yvonne Wong,2014 This chapter examines the general functioning of the World Bank Inspection Panel during its first two decades of operation 1994 2014 to assess whether it really is a vehicle through which individuals can hold the World Bank accountable In making this assessment the chapter considers a the history of the panel b the novelty of the panel as a mechanism for implementing the accountability of an international organization c the legal framework of the panel d the accessibility of the panel to the people it seeks to help e the transparency independence and public accountability of the panel and f the direct and indirect outcomes of the panel mechanism The chapter suggests that while not providing affected persons a legal avenue for redress the Inspection Panel if used strategically as part of larger advocacy strategies particularly by increasing media coverage on problematic projects can nevertheless serve as a useful tool in helping redress wrongs committed as a result of the Bank s failure to comply with its own policies More generally the panel can also push for a cultural change toward greater consideration of the unintended consequences of development projects

The World Bank Inspection Panel and Its Leading Role as an Independent Accountability Mechanism for Project-affected People and Communities Andrea Kämpf,2018

The Inspection Panel of the World Bank Gudmundur Alfredsson,Rolf Ring,2022-07-11 With the adoption of extensive human rights standards and their wide acceptance by States and the international community the time has come to emphasise the implementation of these standards at both national and international levels International financial institutions and development agencies have a special role to play in this respect considering the influence and the resources at their disposal Increasingly they are acknowledging this duty not only as a service to human rights but more so in recognition of the contribution which human rights and democracy and so by extension good governance and accountability make to political stability and improved economies This volume is the result of a Workshop on the Inspection Panel which was organised in Lund by the Raoul Wallenberg Institute of Human Rights and Humanitarian Law and co sponsored by the World Bank Its purpose is to look for common ground in areas of mutual interest and to offer a substantive collection of ideas which can prove useful for the future work of the Inspection Panel and similar institutions Such undertakings must include human rights education and training for the officialdom of national governments and international organisations as well as for the individuals and groups who stand to benefit from the implementation of the international standards and monitoring exercises where independent and impartial experts scrutinise the conduct of national and international actors The World Bank Inspection Panel Ayelet Berman,2008 Demanding Accountability Dana Clark,Jonathan Fox,Kay Treakle,2003

Demanding Accountability is a collection of nine original case studies that offer insights into how local national and international civil society factors mobilize to hold the World Bank accountable for its financed projects It is a rich source of lessons for understanding today s emerging transnational civil society efforts to challenge powerful global institutions

(Human Rights) Accountability? Stefan Aelbrecht,2015

The Inspection Panel for the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, International Development Association World Bank. Inspection Panel,World Bank,1994

The World Bank's Inspection Panel Enrique R. Carrasco,Alison K. Guernsey,2008 In September 1993 the World Bank created the Inspection Panel At the time it was hailed as an unprecedented effort to increase the Bank s accountability Prior to the establishment of the Panel the Bank had engaged in a number of projects that devastated local populations and caused significant environmental damage After unrelenting pressure from environmental and human rights non governmental organizations NGOs the World Bank established the Inspection Panel with hopes of bringing transparency to the Bank s project lending Generally the Panel is charged with investigating complaints filed by parties in borrower countries who believe that the Bank is violating its policies or procedures in the design preparation or implementation of a Bank funded project Despite its novelty when it was established in 1993 there are many critiques of the Panel In general critics question whether the Panel truly increases the accountability of the World Bank on the whole Critics often point out that it has a limited substantive mandate and no ability to grant relief Furthermore the mechanism fails to give affected people a true voice in the outcome of an investigation After the Panel receives the claim the Bank rarely considers the affected communities desires for resolution In essence the Panel is compliance oriented and problem solving is not a principal focus This paper proposes an alternative to the current Inspection Panel process that would offer real and meaningful accountability Our proposal envisions a two stage process that first would require claimant communities to file a Request for Claim Resolution with a newly created Office of Claims Resolution OCR at the World Bank The Director of the OCR would appoint an independent Intermediator who would attempt to solve the problem created by the Bank s alleged noncompliance with its own policies and procedures We expect that most claims would be resolved at the administrative level If however the Intermediator failed to resolve the claim or if the Bank agreed to corrective measures but failed to abide by them claimant communities would have the option to institute arbitration proceedings against the Bank. The proceedings would be conducted based on a modified version of the Optional Rules for Arbitration between International Organizations and Private Parties produced by the Permanent Court of Arbitration. The tribunal's decision would be public, final and binding upon the parties. Its award could set forth corrective measures that the Bank would be required to take to bring it into compliance with its policies and procedures. The tribunal could also award damages to the claimant community.

The World Bank Inspection Panel Casebook Andria Naudé Fourie, 2014. The World Bank Inspection Panel Casebook serves as an introduction to the Inspection Panel's growing body of practice. The first edition of the Casebook contains structured summaries of all registered cases filed at the Inspection Panel by project-affected people and/or their representatives between 1994 and 2011. The case summaries are supplemented by descriptive information and statistics about the Inspection Panel and its cases and is further enhanced by descriptive statistics concerning World Bank-funded development projects which form the backdrop of project-affected people's claims as well as of the Panel's investigations. The Casebook can therefore be used by a wide audience of practitioners, scholars or students that seek to study the Inspection Panel's work as well as comparable citizen-driven international accountability mechanisms while simultaneously providing a unique window onto the World Bank's development operations. A sampling of the structured summaries of inspection panel cases include: Brazil Rondonia Natural Resources Management 1995; Argentina Paraguay Yacyreta Hydroelectric Project 1996; Bangladesh Jamuna Bridge 1996; India Ecodevelopment 1998; Lesotho South Africa Highlands Water 1998; China Western Poverty Reduction Qinghai 1999; Kenya Lake Victoria Environmental Management 1999; Ecuador Mining Development 1999; Chad Petroleum Development and Pipeline 2001; Cameroon Petroleum Development and Pipeline 2002; Philippines Manila Second Sewerage 2003; Mexico Indigenous and Community Biodiversity Project 2003; Colombia Cartagena Water Environmental Management 2004; Cambodia Forest Concession Management 2005; Albania Integrated Coastal Zone Management 2007; Ghana Second Urban Environment Sanitation 2007; Kazakhstan South West Roads 2010; Chile Quilleco Hydropower 2010; Liberia Development Forestry 2010; Uzbekistan Energy Loss Reduction 2010; Lebanon Greater Beirut Water Supply 2010; West Bank Gaza Red Sea Dead Sea Water Conveyance Study Program 2011 and many more.
