Stories Of Transformative Justice:

Stories of Transformative Justice Ruth Morris,2000 Can justice be healing Can crime victims find a new peace through transformative processes that include victims offenders and community in creative solutions that enable all to grow We can turn irritation into iridescence find ways to take the hard blows of life and use the very power of our pain to grow from the experience and create new hope beyond crime or other trauma Forgiveness is an untapped force in our revenge oriented culture These stories show that forgiveness is not condoning or forgetting or failing to set limits Forgiveness is recognizing and acknowledging all that was wrong but refusing to be destroyed by it and refusing to be drawn into a cycle of hatred and bitterness We can change our criminal justice system to include transformative methods We can change our world to one with greater social and economic justice For readers who yearn for realistic hope in these troubled times this is a must read

Beyond Survival Leah Lakshmi Piepzna-Samarasinha,Ejeris Dixon,2020-01-21 Transformative justice seeks to solve the problem of violence at the grassroots level without relying on punishment incarceration or policing Community based approaches to preventing crime and repairing its damage have existed for centuries However in the putative atmosphere of contemporary criminal justice systems they are often marginalized and operate under the radar Beyond Survival puts these strategies front and center as real alternatives to today s failed models of confinement and correction In this collection a diverse group of authors focuses on concrete and practical forms of redress and accountability assessing existing practices and marking paths forward They use a variety of forms from toolkits to personal essays to delve deeply into the how to of transformative justice providing alternatives to calling the police ways to support people having mental health crises stories of community based murder investigations and much more At the same time they document the history of this radical movement creating space for long time organizers to reflect on victories struggles mistakes and transformations

Justicecraft: Imagining Justice in Times of Conflict Lauren Balasco,Eliza Garnsey,Arnaud Kurze,Christopher K. Lamont,2024-05-30 This book is about the making of justice Despite the growing scholarship on transitional and transformative justice contested struggles for justice in times of political change fail to get the nuanced attention we think they deserve It seeks to understand how the making of justice is a craft and how this process of craft making is itself a source of political change The authors introduce a new and novel conceptual framework of justicecraft which sheds light upon political change by unpacking five key elements the skills knowledge labor affect and materiality involved in contested struggles for justice Justicecraft illuminates the stories and struggles for justice enabling a greater understanding of accompanying social political and cultural shifts in society which unfold during times of conflict By framing justice as craft the authors offer a more fluid understanding of how people are producing justice on the ground and identify the means the instruments the language and claims involved in the process Each chapter applies the framework of justicecraft to diverse global case illustrations of struggles against past present and future injustices and wrongdoings and draws out the key elements embedded in these processes Resilience, Adaptive Peacebuilding and Transitional Justice Janine Natalya Clark, Michael Ungar, 2021-10-07 Processes of post war reconstruction peacebuilding and reconciliation are partly about fostering stability and adaptive capacity across different social systems Nevertheless these processes have seldom been expressly discussed within a resilience framework Similarly although the goals of transitional justice among them re establishing the rule of law delivering justice and aiding reconciliation implicitly encompass a resilience element transitional justice has not been explicitly theorised as a process for building resilience in communities and societies that have suffered large scale violence and human rights violations The chapters in this unique volume theoretically and empirically explore the concept of resilience in diverse societies that have experienced mass violence and human rights abuses They analyse the extent to which transitional justice processes have and can contribute to resilience and how in so doing they can foster adaptive peacebuilding This book is available as Open Access Practicing Critical Oral History Christine K. Lemley, 2017-09-08 Practicing Critical Oral History Connecting School and Community provides ways and words for educators to use critical oral history in their classroom and communities in order to put their students and the voices of people from marginalized communities at the center of their curriculum to enact change Clearly and concisely written this book offers a thought provoking overview of how to use stories from those who have been underrepresented by dominant systems to identify a critical topic engage with critical processes and enact critical transformative justice outcomes Critical oral history both writes and rights history so that participants both interviewers and narrators in critical oral history projects aim to contextualize stories and make the voices and perspectives of those who have been historically marginalized heard and listened to Supplemented throughout with sample activities lesson plan outlines tables and illustrative figures Practicing Critical Oral History Connecting School and Community is an essential resource for all those interested in integrating the techniques of critical oral history into an educational setting From Transitional to Transformative Justice Paul Gready, Simon Robins, 2019-02-21 Builds on micro level critiques of transitional justice to debate a more comprehensive alternative at the level of theory and practice Abolishing State Violence Ray Acheson, 2022-07-26 ABOLISHING STATE VIOLENCE is an urgent and accessible analysis of the key structures of state violence in our world today and a clarion call to action for their abolition Connecting movements for social justice with ideas for how activists can support and build on this analysis and strategy this book shows that there are many mutually supportive abolition movements each enhanced by a shared understanding of the relationship between structures of violence and a shared framework for challenging them on the basis of their roots in patriarchy racism militarism settler colonialism and capitalism This book argues that abolition is transformative It is about defunding demilitarizing disbanding and divesting from current structures of violence but also about imagining new ways to organize and care for each other and our planet and about building new systems and cultures to sustain ourselves in a more equitable free and peaceful way It shows that change is possible Restoring Justice Daniel

W. Van Ness, Karen Heetderks Strong, 2002 The book outlines why criminal justice is in need of a new vision and how restorative justice can meet this need The authors define restorative justice and its values explore its foundational underpinnings and details ways to build restorative justice into policy and practice The book grew out of a three year project investigating the theory behind restorative justice the principles for its application and the implementation of practical programs to advance the restorative justice vision This second edition continues with the mission by examining how restorative justice concepts have been applied and by evaluating the conceptual and practical objections and obstacles to restorative justice in practice We Do This 'Til We Free Us Mariame Kaba, 2021-02-23 New York Times Bestseller Organizing is both science and art It is thinking through a vision a strategy and then figuring out who your targets are always being concerned about power always being concerned about how you re going to actually build power in order to be able to push your issues in order to be able to get the target to actually move in the way that you want to What if social transformation and liberation isn t about waiting for someone else to come along and save us What if ordinary people have the power to collectively free ourselves In this timely collection of essays and interviews Mariame Kaba reflects on the deep work of abolition and transformative political struggle With a foreword by Naomi Murakawa and chapters on seeking justice beyond the punishment system transforming how we deal with harm and accountability and finding hope in collective struggle for abolition Kaba s work is deeply rooted in the relentless belief that we can fundamentally change the world As Kaba writes Nothing that we do that is worthwhile is done alone Transforming Justice, Transforming Lives April Bernard, 2015-10-30 What is a just response to persons seeking to desist from criminal behavior In America over the last several decades mass incarceration has emerged as the prevailing policy response to crime and reoffending The majority of those who are imprisoned will be released and those that are released tend to return to communities challenged by high rates of violence crime unemployment and poverty In these conditions without some type of intervention persons with criminal histories are likely to reoffend April Bernard through compelling interviews and field research with formerly gang affiliated women illuminates how through community support and their active engagement in peacemaking work in distressed neighborhoods throughout Chicago they were able to desist from crime rebuild their lives and become meaningful contributors to their communities This book explores the role of community in facilitating the commitment to desist from crime by offering critical support and opportunities for stewardship Bernard provides a timely analysis of the transformative potential of a new perspective on criminal justice which incorporates stewardship and community engagement as a fundamental principal in the response to persons seeking to desist from criminal behavior particularly women The book combines moving personal narratives with concrete practical evidence to call for an alternative to ideology that supports the existing punitive policies and practices of the criminal justice system and the corresponding lack of interventions and opportunities for persons seeking to desist from crime This deeply informed and perceptive analysis concludes with suggestions for alternatives that fit within a transformative justice paradigm Confronting Oppression, Restoring Justice Katherine S. Van Wormer, 2004 An empowerment approach is the organizing framework for this text which examines the nature of oppression who does it and why from the standpoint of biological and social psychological aspects The impact on victim survivors is explored through the inclusion of brief personal narratives recording grueling consciousness raising experiences This book is appropriate for courses in oppression racism and policy analysis A small paperback it can be used as a supplement to a course such as human behavior and the social environment Divided into two parts the first of which focuses on oppression and the second on the twin concept of injustice Confronting Oppression and Restoring Justice has as its major task the addressing of the age old question for social workers How can we avoid participating in the oppression Or working from the outside How can we help the casualties of economic restructuring or the victims of structural or interpersonal violence Examples of exemplary programs and actions to confront oppression and injustice are provided
