D. R. Goddard,P. Bowen,1994 With any advanced material there is always the tendency for more effort to be devoted to further development programmes than to exploring appropriate ways of exploiting existing developments within industry A key reason for this is the lack of suitable test techniques with which to evaluate their performance The key theme of the conference for test techniques for metal matrix composites was testing but applications performance and commercial aspects were also looked at Compressive Testing of Metal Matrix Composites WM. Bethoney,JA. Kidd,J. Nunes,1988 A newly developed direct compressive test fixture for metal matrix composites is described and evaluated in this paper This fixture was designed to be reusable provide accurate and reproducible data and to eliminate premature brooming failures A comparative analysis between this test method and ASTM D 3410 for compressive properties of unidirectional or cross ply fiber resin composites using the Illinois Institute of Technology Research Institute IITRI indirect compression test method was also investigated
