Desperately Seeking the Audience Ien Ang, 2006-06-28 Millions of people all over the world are avid members of the television audience Yet despite the central place television occupies in contemporary culture our understanding of its complex and dynamic role in everyday life remains surprisingly limited Focusing on the television audience Ien Ang asks why we understand so little about its nature and argues that our ignorance arises directly out of the biases inherent in prevailing official knowledge about it She sets out to deconstruct the assumptions of this official knowledge by exploring the territory where it is mainly produced the television institutions Ang draws on Foucault's theory of power knowledge to scrutinize television's desperate search for the audience and to identify differences and similarities in the approaches of American commercial television and European public service television to their audiences She looks carefully at recent developments in the field of ratings research in particular the controversial introduction of the people meter as an instrument for measuring the television audience By defining the limits and limitations of these institutional procedures of knowledge production Ien Ang opens up new avenues for understanding television audiences Her ethnographic perspective on the television audience gives new insights into our television culture with the audience seen not as an object to be controlled but as an active social subject engaging with television in a variety of cultural and creative ways

Hermes,2023-06-10 This book presents a comprehensive review of how acoustic waves are processed by the auditory system into structured sounds such as musical melodies speech utterances or environmental sounds After an introduction an overview is given of how the ears distribute acoustic information over a large array of frequency channels that contain the auditory information used by the central nervous system to generate a mental image of what is happening around the listener This process called auditory scene analysis consists of two stages In the first stage auditory units are formed such as musical tones and speech syllables Each auditory unit is perceived at a well defined moment in time the beat location of that auditory unit Moreover from this process of auditory unit formation the auditory attributes of these auditory units emerge such as their timbre their pitch their loudness and their perceived location Each of these attributes is discussed in the corresponding chapter In the second stage of auditory scene analysis auditory stream formation the successive auditory units are integrated into auditory streams i e temporally structured sequences of auditory units that are perceived as emanating from one and the same sound source Examples of such auditory streams are musical melodies and the utterances of one speaker The temporal structure of an auditory stream its rhythm is determined by the beat locations of its auditory units The role played by the auditory attributes of the consecutive auditory units is discussed The melodies of musical streams and the intonation contours of spoken utterances emerge from this process In music the beats of parallel streams generally fit into a metric pattern and depending on harmony simultaneous tones can be perceived as consonant or dissonant Finally the book contains many sound examples including the MATLAB scripts with which they are generated New York Court of Appeals.
