Global Consumer Organizations Karsten Ronit,2015-08-27 As corporate activity continues to expand in line with the continued globalization of the economy there is an increasing demand for establishing rules to regulate the trans boundary activities of firms and their many and complex relations with consumers

Until now sources of knowledge in this field have been scattered and unsystematic and this volume fills a key gap in current literature providing a concise and accessible introduction to the role of global consumer organizations. The book provides an historical overview that traces the early attempts made before WWII to formulate elements of global consumer policy highlighting key issues and initiatives up until the 1980s. Outlines the groups of organizations that are responsible for dealing with consumer issues in areas such as trade and development, socio-economics and the environment including the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, World Trade Organization, International Monetary Fund, United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and World Bank. Analyses the group of special intergovernmental organizations that address the problems of specific consumer segments, industries and service providers including the World Health Organization, International Telecommunication Union and World Tourism Organization. Evaluates both current and future challenges and dilemmas facing consumer organizations including addressing the continued issues of coordination between them. Providing a much needed overview of this key area in international organization. Global Consumer Organizations will be of interest to students and scholars in a range of areas including international political economy, consumer behaviour, international organizations, economic policy and consumer behaviour.

GLOBAL CONSUMER CULTURE Mark Cleveland, 2019 Searching for the Global Consumer Cap Gemini Ernst & Young, 2002 Urban World Richard Dobbs, Jaana Remes, James Manyika, Jonathan R. Woetzel, Jesko Perrey, Greg Kelly, Kanaka Pattabiraman, Hemant Sharma, 2016. Dramatic demographic shifts are transforming the world's consumer landscape. Our new research finds just three groups of consumers are set to generate half of global urban consumption growth from 2015 to 2030. Until the turn of this century, population growth generated more than half of all global consumption. But between 2015 and 2030, three quarters of global consumption growth will be driven by individuals spending more. This shift has profound implications for companies. What's now important are emerging demographics. The latest report from the McKinsey Global Institute (MGI) finds that nine groups will generate three quarters of global urban consumption growth to 2030 and just three of these will generate half of consumption growth and have the power to reshape global consumer markets over the next 15 years.

Globalization of Consumer Markets Salah S. Hassan, Erdener Kaynak, 2014-02-04. The concepts, strategic frameworks and cases in Globalization of Consumer Markets provide managers of global firms with new ideas for growth and keep them current with state-of-the-art global marketing strategies and management tools.
