Hatch, 2019-06-26 In A Stranger in Jerusalem Trevan Hatch attempts to situate the stories about Jesus within their Jewish context Jesus was a Jew his friends were Jews his first followers were Jews he studied the Hebrew Scriptures either orally or from texts he worshiped in the synagogue and he occasionally traveled to Jerusalem to observe the Israelite festivals Hatch illustrates that Jesus does not seem to have rejected Judaism or acted as a radical outsider in relation to his Jewish peers but rather he worked within a Jewish framework The overarching questions addressed in this book are 1 how can an understanding of early Judaism illuminate our understanding of the Jesus traditions 2 how did Jesus relate to his Jewish world and vice versa 3 why did the Gospel writers portray Jesus and his Jewish peers the way they did and 4 how would Jews in the first and second centuries have interpreted the Jesus traditions upon hearing or reading them Hatch explores several topics including childhood and family life in first century Galilee Jewish notions of baptism and purity Jewish prophets and miracle workers Jewish ideas about the messiah and Jesus relationship with Judas the Pharisees the priestly establishment in Jerusalem the Jewish populace and his own disciples      Racial Conflict and Healing Andrew Sung Park, 2009-12-01 A Korean theologian approaches the issue of racial conflict including discrimination between minority communities and constructs a theology of seeing that aims to heal the ruptures of racism As ethnic tensions continue to simmer and occasionally erupt immigration and affirmative action laws are hotly debated in every ethnic minority African Americans Hispanic Americans Native Americans even Asian Americans the so called model minority struggle in the racially charged atmosphere of contemporary America In the aftermath of the Los Angeles riots of 1992 and the ensuing violence against Korean Americans Andrew Sung Park seeks a theological model that will help transform a society of oppression injustice and violence into a community of equity fairness and mutual consideration Park emphasizes that such a transformation does not and cannot begin only with good intentions but must be grounded in an understanding of all the socio economic and cultural issues that lead to oppression and tension

Using the Korean term han to describe the deep seated suffering of racial oppression he then suggests resources for understanding and healing in both Christian and Asian traditions Part I of Racial Conflict and Healing describes the status quo from a Korean American perspective including discrimination against ethnic minorities and the discrimination they inflict on one another In Parts II and III Park suggests that American society as a whole needs a superordinate vision to form a unified community Park argues that our profoundly individualistic society must learn to understand an idea of self that is formed through relationship with others Finally in Part IV he presents a theological model a theology of seeing as a way to genuinely understand the other and to promote healing within our society
