Phelps, Daniel Pittet, Stephen Sena, 2010-01-15 Best practices in post disaster housing and community reconstruction are constantly evolving The frequency and severity of disasters are increasing and technology is changing how reconstruction is done Reconstruction projects must increasingly focus on the need to reduce future risks by ensuring that what is rebuilt is safer and more disaster resilient than what was there before The expanding role of communities in managing community reconstruction with financial and technical assistance from government is another way reconstruction is changing Safer Homes Stronger Communities is a handbook that gives policy makers and project managers the information they need to plan and carry out housing and community reconstruction projects that empower communities affected by disasters and that reduce their vulnerability to future disasters The handbook includes nearly 100 case studies collected from global experts with recent experience in housing reconstruction that illustrate how the policies and practical approaches recommended in the handbook have been used on the ground It also includes links to extensive technical information on the topics covered by the handbook and is complemented by a Web site for practitioners in the field <http://www.housingreconstruction.org> Designed to provide immediate guidance in post disaster reconstruction settings Safer Homes Stronger Communities is a vital resource for policy makers and project managers and for all practitioners involved in post disaster housing and community reconstruction and disaster risk management Design for Disaster Recovery David Sanderson, 2026-03-03 At a time of escalating urban disasters and sharply reduced aid budgets humanitarian aid long held in need of reform has no choice but to reset This book argues that humanitarian aid must accomplish this reset by prioritising people's agency and localising responses This book provides lessons learned from leading practitioners working in urban development who dissented from established top down practices to forge better people centred approaches These lessons are compared with the wicked problem of post disaster shelter provision reviewing good approaches that work and some bad ones that don't This book ends by proposing three ways for aid to let go through supporting and trusting people to do the right thing This book ultimately seeks to reinforce that engaging in processes is vital for effective disaster recovery programmes That means putting first those caught up in disaster and supporting local organisations who are best placed to provide the right support It will be crucial reading for anyone working in humanitarian aid especially planners architects engineers and community development practitioners intervention invariably rubs shoulders with politics albeit awkwardly and sometimes even with tragic results Tensions between them take many forms ranging from different assessments of the extent or even the existence of a crisis to claims that humanitarian assistance is not saving innocent lives but sustaining politico military forces or to the conclusion that the constraints upon them compel aid agencies to withdraw from the area of operation completely whether to ensure the safety of their own staff or because they believe that their integrity is unacceptably compromised by staying Development and Humanitarianism addresses these and other dilemmas that aid agencies face in interpreting the principles of humanitarianism in contexts where they risk being manipulated by political agendas The contributors have extensive experience as frontline aid workers agency policy makers academics and researchers and professional consultants around the world Like every book in the Development in Practice Readers series Development and Humanitarianism draws on the contents of the acclaimed international journal Development in Practice and includes an annotated resource list of recent publications relevant journals organizations and websites presenting a cutting edge guide to thinking and action Other Contributors Gretchen Alther Andrew Bonwick Julia Buckmaster Udan Fernando Dorothea Hilhorst Jonathan Makuwira Vanessa Pupavac Volker Schimmel Astri Suhrke Frank James Tester Martha Thompson and Suzanne Williams

Environmental Dilemmas Robert Mugerauer, Lynne Manzo, 2008-05-18 Because many people and ecosystems share or constitute any given place they all have a stake in the outcome of what any of us do in regard to environmental problems It is not surprising that issues are hotly contested given the many divergent interests needs and preferences of a community s members much less those of people downstream who are affected by the consequences of our actions or of outside parties who play a part including those who would speak on behalf of the ecosystems Thus we not only must make careful individual decisions concerning the environment but need to improve the way we operate socially especially given the roles and responsibilities we have as environmental professionals private sector developers public policy makers and staff or engaged citizens To aid in resolving our environmental dilemmas Mugerauer and Manzo focus on the decision making process Their goal is to help readers become more aware of the worldviews beliefs and values that enter into the decisions they make and to better resolve differences with others To guide readers in thinking about their own positions and how to approach ethical decisions Mugerauer and Manzo employ a number of exercises and cases to investigate the choices and issues that different stakeholders face for example concerning sustainability Additionally the book presents alternatives in terms of formalized ethical principles the major ethical theories and professional codes of ethics Incorporating the Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement Into Domestic Law ,2010 Settlement and Livelihood Needs and Aspirations Assessment of Disaster-affected and Host Communities in Nanggroe Aceh Darussalam ,2005
