The Traveler, the Tower, and the Worm Alberto Manguel, 2013-05-28 As far as one can tell human beings are the only species for which the world seems made up of stories Alberto Manguel writes We read the book of the world in many guises we may be travelers advancing through its pages like pilgrims heading toward enlightenment We may be recluses withdrawing through our reading into our own ivory towers Or we may devour our books like burrowing worms not to benefit from the wisdom they contain but merely to stuff ourselves with countless words With consummate grace and extraordinary breadth the best selling author of A History of Reading and The Library at Night considers the chain of metaphors that have described readers and their relationships to the text that is the world over a span of four millennia In figures as familiar and diverse as the book addled Don Quixote and the pilgrim Dante who carries us through the depths of hell up to the brilliance of heaven as well as Prince Hamlet paralyzed by his learning and Emma Bovary who mistakes what she has read for the life she might one day lead Manguel charts the ways in which literary characters and their interpretations reflect both shifting attitudes toward readers and reading and certain recurrent notions on the role of the intellectual We are reading creatures We ingest words we are made of words It is through words that we identify our reality and by means of words that we ourselves are identified
