William Plomer Peter F. Conteh-Morgan, 2005-10-30 Now a firmly established part of world literature course offerings in many general education curricula African literature is no longer housed exclusively with African Studies programs and is often studied in English French Portuguese Women's Studies and Comparative Studies departments This book helps fill the great need for research materials on this topic presenting the best resources available for 300 African writers These writers have been carefully selected to include both well known writers and those less commonly studied yet highly influential They are drawn from both the Sub Sahara and the Maghreb the major geographical regions of Africa The study of Africa was introduced into the curriculum of institutions of higher learning in the United States in the 1960s when the Black Consciousness movement in the United States and the Cold War and decolonization movements in Africa created a need for the systematic study of other regions of the world. Between 1986 and 1991 three Africans won Nobel literature prizes: Soyinka, Mahfouz, and Gordimer, and the visibility of African writers increased. They are now a firmly established part of world literature courses in many general education curricula throughout North America. African Writers is meant to serve as a resource for introductory material on 300 writers from 39 countries. These writers were selected on the basis of two criteria: that there is material on them in an easily available reference work and that there is some information of research value on free Web sites. Each writer is from the late 19th or 20th century, with the notable exception of Olaudah Equiano, an 18th-century African whose slave narrative is generally considered the first work of African literature. All entries are annotated.

Uncollected Letters of Virginia Woolf
Stuart N. Clarke, Stephen Barkway, 2025-03-31

Many previously undiscovered letters from Virginia Woolf have come to light since the original six-volume Collected Letters was published between 1975 and 1980. Over 1,400 are included in this vital new book, illuminating facets of Woolf's life that have previously been hidden or only glimpsed. Important letters to contemporary writers such as Stella Benson, Rebecca West, Lyn Lloyd Irvine, and Berta Ruck have been unearthed from archives, as well as fifty letters to T. S. Eliot. This book also features substantial collections of letters to Lady Colefax, Winifred Holtby, Mary Hutchinson, Christabel McLaren, Lady Aberconway, and Raymond Mortimer, as well as previously unrecorded correspondents. Through these letters, we see Woolf encouraging would-be authors and negotiating with editors, literary agents, and foreign translators in her role as a professional writer. The Uncollected Letters of Virginia Woolf provides extraordinary insight into the variety of acquaintance of one of the most fascinating literary figures of the twentieth century.
