Van Dop, George Kallos, 2012-12-06 The interest in air pollution modelling has shown substantial growth over the last five years This was particularly evident by the increasing number of participants attending the NATO CCMS International Technical Meetings on Air Pollution modelling and its Application At the last meeting 118 papers and posters were selected from an abundance of submitted abstracts divided over five modelling topics i model assessment and verification including policy applications ii air pollution modelling in coastal areas with emphasis on the mediterranean region iii accidental atmospheric releases including warning systems and regulations iv modelling of global and long range transport and v new developments in turbulent diffusion A round table discussion chaired by John Irwin USA and Jan Kretzschmar Belgium on the harmonization of air pollution models was attended by more than 50 scientists and is reported in these proceedings The opening paper addressed the main issue of this conference modelling over complex terrain Of particular interest were coastal areas where the surface inhomogeneities introduce small scale circulation and varying atmospheric stability often combined with a complex topography As the conference was located on the beautiful island of Crete problems faced by the host nation particularly Athens and its environs were obvious examples for consideration These together with other regions with similar geographical features were addressed Heavily populated and industrialized as they often are air quality is generally poor there and emission regulations are desired Obviously a major task of air pollution dispersion modelling is to assist policy makers in formulating sensible regulations     Introduction to Computer Simulation Nancy Roberts, David Anderson, 1983 This book helps you model the behavior of your organization and offers you the ability to produce the results you want with few surprises A primer for professionals in different arenas including business government and the social sciences who want to reshape their organizations products or services     The Controlled Flood in Grand Canyon Robert H. Webb, 1999-01-26 Published by the American Geophysical Union as part of the Geophysical Monograph Series Volume 110 The natural flow of almost every river in the United States has been modified to meet various socioeconomic goals navigation irrigation power generation and flood control The success of the dams and reservoirs built to achieve these goals has been accompanied by changes in the status of riverine resources downstream a cause of growing environmental and ecological concern For example before Glen Canyon Dam was completed the Colorado River transported large quantities of sediment in floods as large as 8500 m<sup>3</sup> s After the dam was closed in 1963 dam releases typically were less than the powerplant capacity of 890 m<sup>3</sup> s and exhibited large daily flow fluctuations The river carried little sediment The daily fluctuations in flow eroded sand bars and the smaller controlled flow did not redeposit them The clear cold water resulted in increased aquatic productivity such that rainbow trout and other nonnative fishes thrived while most native species were lost or endangered
