Current Research Information System, 1983 South , 1986 Regionalisation and Integration in China Colin Brown, John Longworth, Scott Waldron, 2020-09-10 This title was first published in 2002 Changing economic institutional and market environments have turned the spatial inter relationships thought to exist in China upside down Through an investigation of the beef industry this text builds a picture of where regionalization and integration are heading in China It examines the impacts of market forces industry characteristics relative factor endowments and government influence on the spatial organization of activities It reveals the influence of government as priorities are re assessed and as markets and industries develop as well as exploring the extent of regional co ordination and co operation and how central and local government policies and strategies reconcile The volume also contains regional assessments of the beef industry in 12 key producing provinces and the key consumption areas of Beijing Shanghai and Hong Kong Growing Local Robert P. King, Michael Stephen Hand, Miguel I. Gómez, 2014 In an increasingly commercialized world the demand for better quality healthier food has given rise to one of the fastest growing segments of the U S food system locally grown food Many believe that relocation of the food system will provide a range of public benefits including lower carbon emissions increased local economic activity and closer connections between consumers farmers and communities The structure of local food supply chains however may not always be capable of generating these perceived benefits Growing Local reports the findings from a coordinated series of case studies designed to develop a deeper more nuanced understanding of how local food products reach consumers and how local food supply chains compare with mainstream supermarket supply chains To better understand how local food reaches the point of sale Growing Local uses case study methods to rigorously compare local and mainstream supply chains for five products in five metropolitan areas along multiple social economic and environmental dimensions highlighting areas of growth and potential barriers Growing Local provides a foundation for a better understanding of the characteristics of local food production and emphasizes the realities of operating local food supply chains
