Stanislavski System

A method of actor training that encourages actors to deeply explore a character's motivations and circumstances to deliver truthful, lifelike performances.

Emotional Memory

Actors draw on personal past experiences to evoke real emotions that align with their character's situation.

The Magic If

By asking "What would I do if I were in this situation?", actors use imagination to connect personally with the character's experience.

Objectives

Every character wants something; identifying their goal in each scene helps the actor play with intention and drive.

Super Objective

This is the character's overarching goal or desire throughout the entire play, guiding their overall journey and choices.

Through Line of Action

Actors trace a consistent path of motivations and actions that link scenes together, creating a coherent and believable character arc.

Given Circumstances

Actors must understand the who, what, where, when, and why of their character's situation to ground their performance in the reality of the play.

Subtext

The underlying meaning beneath the dialogue is explored so the actor can deliver lines with layered and truthful expression.

Physical Action

Physical actions are used to externalise inner emotions and objectives, helping actors remain truthful and reactive on stage.
