Recovery of Gray Wolves in the Great Lakes Region of the United States Adrian P. Wydeven, Timothy R. van Deelen, Edward Heske, 2009-02-27 In this book we document and evaluate the recovery of gray wolves Canis lupus in the Great Lakes region of the United States The Great Lakes region is unique in that it was the only portion of the lower 48 states where wolves were never completely extirpated This region also contains the area where many of the first modern concepts of wolf conservation and research were developed Early proponents of wolf conservation such as Aldo Leopold Sigurd Olson and Durward Allen lived and worked in the region The longest ongoing research on wolf prey relations see Vucetich and Peterson Chap 3 and the first use of radio telemetry for studying wolves see Mech Chap 2 occurred in the Great Lakes region The Great Lakes region is the first place in the United States where Endangered wolf populations recovered All three states Minnesota Wisconsin and Michigan developed ecologically and socially sound wolf conservation plans and the federal government delisted the population of wolves in these states from the United States list of endangered and threatened species on March 12 2007 see Refsnider Chap 21 Wolf management reverted to the individual states at that time Although this delisting has since been challenged we believe that biological recovery of wolves has occurred and anticipate the delisting will be restored This will be the first case of wolf conservation reverting from the federal government to the state conservation agencies in the United States

Wolves Ruth Bjorklund, 2009 Describes the characteristics behavior and plight of endangered wolf species and what people can do to help Provided by publisher

Gray Wolves and the Endangered Species Act Chase Ewing, 2012 Second only to humans in adapting to climate extremes grey wolves once ranged from coast to coast and from Alaska to Mexico in North America By the early 20th century government sponsored predator control programs and declines in prey brought grey wolves to near extinction in 48 states This book examines the Endangered Species Act as it applies to grey wolves with a focus on the grey wolf population recovery and biology in the United States today

Gray Wolves Under the Endangered Species Act, 2007 The Services FWS the National Marine Fisheries Service's ability to address local issues without the need to list recover and consult rangewide will result in a more effective program 26 The FWS has followed Congress's admonition to apply the practice sparingly According to FWS only 39 of the 374 vertebrates listed under the ESA are DPSs In the case of the bald eagle a petition to recognize a new bald eagle DPS in Arizona was filed at the time the entire bald eagle species was being removed from the ESA On that same date the Northern Rockies DPS was designated and the population delisted except for the population in Wyoming because Wyoming's state laws were found not to provide enough protection for the wolf 31 Efforts to name the wolves of the Alexander Archipelago in Alaska as threatened or endangered have not succeeded 32 in part because the wolves in that region have not been considered as And if a portion of the DPS reaches its recovery goals FWS arguing that it does not have legal responsibility to recover a species throughout its historic range would be relieved of the burden of recovering the species in the remainder of the DPS's range Examples of species with nonessential experimental populations
