Women Globalization And Fragmentation In Developing Countries:

Women, Globalization and Fragmentation in the Developing World H. Afshar, S. Barrientos, 1999-07-05 The process of globalization has had a dramatic impact on the lives of women in developing countries in the past decade They have been increasingly drawn into insecure flexible employment working for the world market The feminisation of the labour market has increased the burdens on women and the inability of men to access full time well remunerated employment has exacerbated the process of male out migration and has left many families headed by women At the same time the reduction in state services and welfare has increased the burdens placed on women Nevertheless the consequences of globalization have been different for different women in different places In some circumstances it has created opportunities for greater empowerment whilst in others it has stimulated a reaction and increased the subordination of women This book explores the experiences of women in diverse local contexts within different cultures and faiths drawing on case studies from Asia Africa and Latin America It draws out the contradictory and fragmented impact of globalization at the local level on the lives of women in the developing world

The Gender Question in Globalization Francien van Driel, 2020-11-25 Orthodox views of globalization assume that it has the same features and impact everywhere i e the feminization of poverty labour and even peace As these ideas circulate in official documents and scientific writings they settle practically as truths This challenging and unique book is amongst the first to deconstruct these orthodoxies using a multi layered gender analysis where globalization is not treated as a linear and top down process with a known outcome and a pre conceived definition of gender Instead the authors scrutinize the dynamics of each context on its own merits including the agency of women and men resulting in unexpected and groundbreaking insights into the variety of differences apparent even in sometimes seemingly similar global processes Through this gender lens different and new meanings of gender appear rooted in multiple modernities The book will be a seminal contribution to debates in the fields of international labour sexuality identity feminism peace studies and migration
