Wishfulfillment and Symbolism in Fairy Tales Franz Ricklin, 1915 The Psychoanalytic Review, 1914 Nervous and Mental Disease Monograph Series, 1915 Italian Popular Tales Crane, 1885 Straightforward Marcus Attwater, 2020-07-29

When asked to name an archetypal love story most people will reply Romeo Juliet although some say Tristan Isolde instead Very few will come up with a classical example and the reason for this is simple when you say archetypal it is assumed you mean love between a man and a woman and instances of this in classical accounts are rare The reason for this is also not hard to find as it does now love in the ancient world meant the affection of equals and given the inferior position of women in Greek and Roman society between the sexes is not usually where love is to be found

Straightforward examines how we got from there to here It is a study not of the loves of real people but of the ideal of love as it found expression in stories stories which were often retold and reimagined by new generations and new cultures By following these stories and the changes they underwent through the centuries Straightforward attempts to answer two related questions When and why did the heterosexual ideal become normative in our narrative tradition and What was there before We begin in archaic Greece with a story which was already old when Homer composed his epics Béaloideas, 1928 Italian Popular Tales Thomas Frederick Crane, 1885 Nervous and Mental Disease Monographs, 1915 The Whirlpool of Destiny Janaki Sastry, 2025-08-15

This story explores the meaning of humanity through the lives of those bound by tradition superstition and the long standing feud between two villages in a Himalayan valley The bitterness between them has endured since the days of the British Raj The Holy Man of the Himalayas gifts a silver flute to young Vidhi telling her she is like a candle As she burns slowly she brings light to those around her He declares that she alone will bring peace and prosperity to the valley Eight years later he unites the two rival families by arranging a marriage between their children

Some journeys take us far from home and lead us to our true destiny In a quiet corner of that valley a kind woman named Betty watches the life of the young bride next door unfold Betty still remembers how during the war her husband and his friend were saved by strangers in Burma Her husband never forgot them and often said that gratitude is the memory of the heart It helps make sense of our past and brings peace to the present With his words etched in her heart Betty opens her home to Vidhi after the young bride is cruelly abandoned Over the next two decades Vidhi faces racial prejudice and the scorn of her own community Yet through it all Betty stands beside her like a true mother For Betty the greatest gift in life is being a mother Though she could not fully be that to her own daughter Kathy she becomes something just as powerful to Vidhi
