The Foundations Of Palatial Crete:

The Foundations of Palatial Crete Keith Branigan,1970 Pre-palatial Keith Branigan,1988 The Foundations of Palatial Crete Keith Branigan,1970 States and Cities of Ancient Greece the Foundations of Palatial Crete , The Foundations of Palatial Crete Keith Branigan,1970 The Bronze Age Begins Philip P. Betancourt,2008-08-26 This book focuses on economic and social changes particularly during the opening phase of the Minoan civilization on the island of Crete New developments in ceramics that reached Crete at the end of the Neolithic period greatly contributed to the creation of economic technological social and religious advancements we call the Early Bronze Age The arguments are two fold a detailed explanation of the ceramics we call Early Minoan I and the differences that set it apart from its predecessors and an explanation of how these new and highly superior containers changed the storage transport and accumulation of a new form of wealth consisting primarily of processed agricultural and animal products like wine olive oil and various foods preserved in wine vinegar honey and other liquids The increased stability and security provided by an improved ability to store food from one year to the next would have a profound effect on the society Art of Ancient India and the Aegean A.S.

Bhalla,2024-07-11 This book examines similarities and differences between art in ancient Indian Indus civilizations and that of the Aegean civilizations The comparison raises questions about possible cross cultural influences which became more significant following Alexander s invasion and the subsequent adaptation of Indian art under the Indo Greek kingdoms

Pseira VII Philip P. Betancourt,Costis Davaras,2003-07-01 Richard B Seager excavated the Minoan cemetery at Pseira in 1907 but the work was never published The Temple University excavations 1985 1994 under the direction of Philip P Betancourt and Costis Davaras conducted an intensive surface survey of the cemetery area cleaned and drew plans of all visible tombs and excavated tombs that had not been previously excavated The results of the cemetery excavations on the small island off the northeast coast of Crete are published in two volumes Pseira VII presents the results from the excavation and cleaning of the 19 tombs that still exist at the Pseira cemetery The cemetery is remarkable for the diversity of its tomb types Burials were in cist graves built of vertical slabs a class with Cycladic parallels in small tombs constructed of fieldstones in house tombs and in jars Burials were communal as is usual in Minoan cemeteries Artifacts included clay vases stone vessels obsidian bronze tools jewelry and other objects OIKOS Maria Relaki,Jan Driessen,2020-07-28 This collection of papers explores whether the L vi Straussian notion of the House is a valid concept in aiding the comprehension of the social structure of Bronze Age Aegean societies The volume succeeds in stressing the advances made in the study of social structure of the Aegean on the basis of material remains The Hagia Photia Cemetery II Philip P. Betancourt,Costis Davaras,2012-12-31 The publication of the Hagia Photia Cemetery is planned in three volumes The first volume which has already been published Davaras and Betancourt 2004 presented the tomb groups and the architecture The second volume about the excavation of the Hagia Photia cemetery focuses on the pottery The third volume will present the obsidian stone finds metal objects and other discoveries The Early Minoan I tombs at Hagia Photia included the largest assemblage of vessels in Cycladic style known from Crete as well as vases from production workshops in Crete The pottery is extremely important for several reasons including the definition of the EM I ceramic styles that were being used as funerary offerings in this part of Crete the establishment of the chronological synchronisms between Crete and the Cyclades and information on the history of the Minoan pottery industry When compared with other deposits from EM I Crete the pottery helps to establish a better understanding of the ceramic development within the first Minoan time period

Travellers in Time Saro Wallace, 2018-03-13 Travellers in Time re evaluates the extent to which the earliest Mediterranean civilizations were affected by population movement It critiques both traditional culture history grounded notions of movement in the region as straightforwardly transformative and the processual systemic models that have more recently replaced this view arguing that newer scholarship too often pays limited attention to the specific encounters experiences and agents involved in travel By assessing a broad range of recent archaeological and ancient textual data from the Aegean and central and east Mediterranean via five comprehensive studies this book makes a compelling case for rethinking issues such as identity agency materiality and experience through an understanding of movement as transformative This innovative and timely study will be of interest to advanced undergraduates postgraduate students and scholars in the fields of Aegean Mediterranean prehistory and Classical archaeology as well as anyone interested in ancient Aegean and Mediterranean culture

The Hagia Photia Cemetery I Philip P. Betancourt, Costis Davaras, 2004-12-31 The Hagia Photia Cemetery takes its name from the nearby village on the northeast coast of Crete 5 km east of modern Siteia This large Early Minoan burial ground with over fifteen hundred Cycladic imports was discovered in 1971 A total of 263 tombs were excavated as a rescue excavation in 1971 and 1984 Among the 1800 artefacts are some of the earliest known Cretan discoveries of several types the grave goods come mostly from the Kampos Group an assemblage of artefacts known mainly from the Cyclades Similarly the tombs represent an architectural style and a series of burial customs that are foreign to Crete but familiar from elsewhere within the Aegean In fact the cemetery has such close parallels from the Cyclades that it has often been regarded as a Cycladic colony The burial contents are an extremely interesting body of evidence for the study of the formative phases of Minoan Crete

Pseira VI Philip P. Betancourt, Costis Davaras, 2002-12-31 Richard B Seager excavated the Minoan cemetery at Pseira in 1907 but the work was never published The Temple University excavations 1985 1994 under the direction of Philip P Betancourt and Costis Davaras conducted an intensive surface survey of the cemetery area cleaned and drew plans of all visible tombs and excavated tombs that had not been previously excavated The results of the cemetery excavations on the small island off the northeast coast of Crete are published in two volumes Pseira VI publishes the methodology that was employed for the investigation the topography of the cemetery area the little that can be reconstructed of Seager s campaign the ceramic petrography for the cemetery pottery and the results of the intensive surface survey The survey shows that the cemetery was first used in the Neolithic period and it was abandoned in Middle Minoan II before the expansion of the nearby town in LM I It also demonstrates that the cemetery was larger than the area suggested by the 33 tombs found by Seager and it shows that the customs included burial in jars even though no examples have been excavated The Chrysokamino Metallurgy Workshop and Its Territory Philip P. Betancourt,2006 This detailed report describes archaeological fieldwork conducted between 1995 and 1997 in rural northeast Crete Excavations were made in two locations a metallurgy workshop abandoned in EM III and a nearby rural habitation site perhaps a farmhouse used until LM III An intensive survey of the vicinity revealed other activities in the area from the Early Neolithic onwards and placed the sites in a micro regional context A publication of the Minoan farmhouse will appear subsequently but this volume stands on its own as both an overview of the project and as a detailed study of the copper smelting workshop The Pseira Cemetery Philip P. Betancourt,2002

Pepragmena tou 5. Diethnous Krêtologikou Synedriou ,1985 Aegaeum ,1990 Anthropomorphic Figurines from the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age Aegean Maria Mina,2008 This work focuses on the study of gender in the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age EBA periods in the Aegean seeking to explore the ways in which gender was dynamically constructed enacted and negotiated through daily interactions and practices in early prehistoric communities through systematic analysis of anthropomorphic figurines of the Neolithic and EBA Aegean The present study critically reviews earlier interpretations but more importantly explores the resulting implications for the understanding of the Neolithic and EBA societies of the Aegean It detects fluctuating patterns of gender dynamics but the observations are also compared diachronically in order to investigate rhythms of social development or episodes of stasis in societies taken to represent different cultural traditions Ultimately the findings serve to reassess social models that have been proposed for the explanation of the Neolithic and EBA periods in the Aegean in terms of unilinear or fluctuating rhythms of social development

Scripta Minora J. T. Hooker,1996 Sailing to Paradise Jim Bailey,1994 In Sailing to Paradise Jim Bailey alters our fundamental understanding of history Bailey draws on the labors and findings of a great variety of experts archaeologists language experts anthropologists biologists historians collectors of myth and oral tradition and geographers and sets out to show that there has really been a global village several times before Applying his extensive research Bailey shows the genesis of our various religions the spread of the matriarchal world the worship of the Great Goddess the early history of Africa and the early worldwide use of mining and technology He points out that America has been a world power at least twice before Sailing to Paradise is a brilliant comprehensive recreation of history that will appeal to anyone fascinated with the possibilities of our far distant past BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved
