The Forms of Autobiography William C. Spengemann,1980-01-01      The Content of the Form Hayden White,1990-08-01
Hayden White probes the notion of authority in art and literature and examines the problems of meaning its production distribution and consumption in different historical epochs In the end he suggests the only meaning that history can have is the kind that a narrative imagination gives to it The secret of the process by which consciousness invests history with meaning resides in the content of the form in the way our narrative capacities transform the present into a fulfillment of a past from which we would wish to have descended      Literary Form as Postcolonial Critique Katharine Burkitt,2016-05-06
Focusing on works by Derek Walcott Les Murray Anne Carson and Bernardine Evaristo Katharine Burkitt investigates the relationship between literary form and textual politics in postcolonial narrative poems and verse novels Burkitt argues that these works disrupt and undermine the traditions of particular forms and genres and most notably the expectations attached to the prose novel poetry and epic This subversion of form Burkitt argues is an important aspect of the texts postcoloniality as they locate themselves critically in relation to literary convention and they are all concerned with matters of social racial and national identities in a world where these categories are inherently complicated In addition the awareness of epic tradition in these texts unites them as post epics in that as they reuse the myths and motifs of a variety of epics they question the status of the form demonstrate it to be inherently malleable and regenerate its stories for the contemporary world As she examines the ways in which postcolonial texts rewrite the traditions of classical epics for the twentieth and twenty first centuries Burkitt ties close textual analysis to a critical intervention in the politics of form      The Continuum Encyclopedia of American Literature Steven R.
