The Press In Ireland:

The Press in Ireland Stephen James Meredith Brown, 1971 Climate Change, Politics and the Press in Ireland David Robbins, 2018-10-04 Media coverage of climate change has attracted much scholarly attention because the extent of such coverage has an agenda setting effect and because the ways in which the coverage is framed can influence public perception of and engagement with the issue However certain gaps in our understanding of the processes whereby such coverage is produced remain The competition among strategic actors to influence media framing strategies is poorly understood and the perspectives of journalists and editors are largely absent from literature With a view to advancing our understanding of the frame competition around climate change and to presenting the perspectives of journalists regarding climate change as a journalistic topic this book presents an in depth case history of media coverage of climate change in Ireland First the extent of media attention for climate change is established and the way in which such coverage is framed is also examined Through a series of interviews including rare and privileged access to government ministers their media advisors and journalists and editors the book uncovers the contest to establish a dominant framing The main objective of this book is to advance our understanding of the contest to establish the dominant framing of climate change in the media discourse Although focussed on Ireland its conclusions are of value to those seeking to better understand the dynamics of media coverage of climate change in other contexts This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate change environmental policy media and communication studies and Irish politics The Freedom of the Press in Ireland, 1784-1841 Brian Inglis, 1975 The Media in Europe Euromedia Research Group, 2004-01-31 Covering 23 countries this volume highlights and explains key issues of debate and current tendencies in media policy and provides basic statistics relating to each case study The chapters are written by an expert from the country concerned The News from Ireland Maurice Walsh, 2011-03-24 The Anglo Irish war of 1919 1921 was an international historical landmark the first successful revolution against British rule and the beginning of the end of the Empire But the Irish revolutionaries did not win their struggle on the battlefield their key victory was in mobilising public opinion in Britain and the rest of the world Journalists and writers flocked to Ireland where the increasingly brutal conflict was seen as the crucible for settling some of the key issues of the new world order emerging from the ruins of the First World War On trial was the British Empire s claim to be the champion of civilisation as well as the principle of self determination proclaimed by the American president Woodrow Wilson The News from Ireland vividly explores the work of British and American correspondents in Ireland as well as other foreign journalists and literary figures It offers a penetrating and persuasive assessment of the Irish revolution s place in a key moment of world history as well as the role of the press and journalism in the conflict This important book will be essential reading for anyone interested in Irish history and how our understanding of history generally is shaped by the media Ireland and the New Journalism K. Steele, M. de Nie, Michael de Nie, 2014-07-10 This volume explores the ways in which the complicated revolution in British newspapers the New Journalism influenced Irish politics culture and newspaper practices The essays here further illuminate the central role of the press in the evolution of Irish nationalism and modernism in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries

Media in Ireland Damien Kiberd,2002 The third volume in the Cleraun Media Conference series this book includes some of Ireland s leading journalists and broadcasters including Adrian Moynes Ursula Halligan George Lee Thierry Garcin Maggie O Kane Joe Duffy Michael Beattie David Miller Patrick Gorevan and Breda O Brien Topics include children and television media and social exclusion media and the Northern Ireland peace process and commercial versus public broadcasting

The British Media and Ireland ,1979

Irish Media John Horgan,2001 Irish Media A Critical History maps the landscape of media in Ireland from the foundation of the modern state in 1922 to the present Covering all principal media forms print and electronic in the Republic and in Northern Ireland John Horgan shows how Irish history and politics have shaped the media of Ireland and in turn have been shaped by them Beginning in a country ravaged by civil war it traces the complexities of wartime censorship and details the history of media technology from the development of radio to the inauguration of television in the 1950s and 1960s It covers the birth development and sometimes the death of major Irish media during this period examining the reasons for failure and success and government attempts to regulate and respond to change Finally it addresses questions of media globalisation ownership and control and looks at issues of key significance for the future Horgan demonstrates why in a country whose political divisions and economic development have given it a place on the world stage out of all proportion to its size the media have been and remain key players in Irish history
