Bharati Mukherjee Emmanuel S. Nelson, 2017-04-07 The twelve essays that form this book first published in 1993 interpret Bharati Mukherjee's oeuvre from a variety of critical perspectives. The authors' approaches range from the biographical to the poststructuralist, from cultural analysis to comparative commentary to deconstructive reading. Such diversity in the contributors' theoretical stances and interpretive strategies enables this collection of essays to serve a key purpose: to offer not only multiple but conflicting perspectives on Mukherjee's art and achievement.

The Ascendant Trilogy K. Arsenault Rivera, 2020-08-25 The Ascendant Trilogy ebundle collects all three books in K. Arsenault Rivera's epic fantasy: The Tiger's Daughter, The Phoenix Empress, and The Warrior Moon. Conversations with Bharati Mukherjee Bharati Mukherjee, 2009 The first naturalized citizen to win the National Book Critics Circle Award, Bharati Mukherjee (b. 1940) was born into a rigid hierarchy as a Bengali Brahmin and raised in the elite of Calcutta society. She joined the American masses by choice. This journey from a privileged yet circumscribed life to one of free will and risk supplied the experiences she has turned into literature. From her first interview originally published over three decades ago in her native tongue, Bengali, in the Calcutta journal Desh and appearing here for the first time in English, to an in-depth interview in 2007 granted specifically for this collection, this volume provides a candid look at the woman who has been called the grande dame of diasporic Indian literature.

Wanderwords Maria Lauret, 2014-09-25 Post-structuralism and psychoanalysis, and in an era of global migration in which English is the lingua franca but not necessarily the lingua aesthetica for migrants, readers and critics are more aware than ever that words and meanings wander; that writers cannot be taken at their word and that the borders between literary forms—fiction, poetry, life writing, essays—often do not hold. What happens then with writers who work in English but have more than one language at their disposal? Do their words wander from one language, one life, one self, one literary form to another? Do the psychic and cultural worlds of their languages split apart or merge? Does their English betray the presence of another language, is that other language erased, or does it appear here and there on special occasions with special meanings? What in different forms of literature is the aesthetic effect of such wandering, splitting, or merging? How do writers negotiate their representation of a multilingual world for a monolingual audience? Wanderwords brings together literary and cultural theory with areas of research that have a bearing on but do not directly address the problems of representation that creative writers face when the dilemma of what language to write in and consequently what audience to write for presents itself. The result is of necessity interdisciplinary and involves socio and psycholinguistics as well as psychoanalysis and neuroscience, history and theory of migration and ethnicity, and of course literary and cultural theory, specifically of life writing.
