Spector, 2016-04-08 The twelve essays in Romanticism Judaica explore the four major cultural strands that have converged from the French Revolution to the present The first section Nationalism and Diasporianism contains essays on the diasporian mentality of the Romantics Byron's attitude towards nationalism and Polish immigrant Hyman Hurwitz's attempt to gain acceptance among the British by having Coleridge translate his Hebrew elegy for Princess Charlotte Essays of the second section Religion and Anti-Semitism deal with the complexities of Jewish-Christian relations in the Romantic Period Specifically they discuss philosopher Solomon Maimon's lack of response to Kant's anti-Semitism novelist Maria Polack's use of Christian subject matter to combat anti-Semitism and short story writer Grace Aguilar's incorporation of the British Bible-centered Evangelical culture along with various strands of British Romanticism In the third section Individualism and Assimilationism essays consider different ways the Jews were assimilated into the dominant culture specifically through the theater sports and and post-Enlightenment philosophy Finally the volume concludes with Criticism and Reflection a reevaluation of earlier scholarship on Anglo-Jewish literature the establishment of Harold Fisch's covenantal hermeneutics as a model for reading Keats and an analysis of Lionel Trilling M.H. Singing in a Foreign Land Karen A. Weisman, 2018-07-19 In Singing in a Foreign Land Karen A. Weisman examines the uneasy literary inheritance of British cultural and poetic norms by early nineteenth-century Anglo-Jewish authors Focusing on a range of subgenres from elegies to pastorals to psalm translations Weisman shows how the writers she studies engaged with the symbolic resources of English poetry such as the land of England itself from which they had been historically alienated Weisman looks at the self-conscious explorations of lyric form by Emma Lyon the elegies for members of the British royal family penned by Hyman Hurwitz the ironic reflections on hybrid identities written by sisters Celia and Marion Moss and the poems of Grace Aguilar that explicitly join lyric effusion to Jewish historical concerns These poets were well-versed in both Jewish texts and mainstream literary history and Weisman argues that they model an extreme example of Romantic self-reflexivity they implicitly lament their own inability fully to appropriate inherited Romantic ideals about nature and transcendence even while acknowledging that those ideals are already deeply ironized by such figures as Coleridge Shelley and Wordsworth And because they do not possess a secure history binding them to the landscape of British hearth and home they recognize the need to create in their lyric poetry a stable narrative of identity within England and within the King's English even as they gesture toward the impossibility and sometimes even the undesirability of doing so Singing in a Foreign Land reveals how these Anglo-Jewish poets caught between their desire to enter the English lyric tradition and their inability as Jews to share in the full religious and cultural Romantic heritage asserted a subtle cultural authority in their poems that
