Vegetation and Erosion J. B. Thornes,1990-07-19 Stressing the significance of vegetation in geomorphology an often ignored area it presents the results of the 1988 British Geomorphological Research Group conference which brought together work in progress or recently completed on plant processes and geomorphological interactions According to the editor these results while encouraging are only a start indicating a preponderance of past work dealing with vegetation simply as an extrinsic variable The text focuses on vegetation as a highly dynamic and vital component that affects virtually all processes and therefore all geomorphological histories By raising these and other issues it indicates a variety of avenues for future investigation Environmental Impact Analysis Process: Environmental consequences to the study regions and operating base vicinities ,1980 Environmental Impact Analysis Process: Environmental consequences to the study regions and operating base vicinities United States. Department of the Air Force,1980 Soil and Water Loss and Environmental Effects Xudong Peng,Narsimha Adimalla, Zisheng Xing, Qiang Li,2025-09-23 Soil erosion and water loss pose two serious challenges to the global ecological environment today Every 5 seconds an area of soil equivalent to a football field is eroded on Earth whereas it takes up to 1000 years to form just 2 3 cm of soil on the Earth s surface These issues are the result of various natural factors but human activities and related land use change are the primary drivers of accelerated soil erosion and water loss This acceleration has far reaching consequences including farmland degradation water sources pollution and ecosystem imbalance as well as threats to the sustainability of agriculture efficient water resource utilization and global climate stability In the 21st century soil and water are essential resources for meeting human needs such as food feed fiber clean water and clean air They are fundamental components of ecosystems and vital for the proper functioning of Earth s systems supporting the delivery of primary ecosystem services However they have become increasingly degraded on a global scale due to climate change and human activities It is an urgent priority to understand the processes of soil erosion and water loss and their environmental effects In response to these challenges studying the underlying mechanisms long term impacts and management approaches for addressing soil and water resource loss has become a crucial issue to be tackled
