O. Sharp, 1996 Following 1990s defence cuts Britain's armed forces are stretched quite severely Successive governments have preferred buying US nuclear technology and intelligence to working with European partners The US has disengaged from Europe leaving the NATO countries with no common purpose The contributors to this volume economists and defence analysts outline how UK governments need to establish priorities within budget constraints exploring a division of labour with European partners restructure the army towards forces suitable for low intensity interventions and peace support rationalize defence production and procurement adapt the bipolar Cold War arms control regimes to the new multipolar world and redefine the requirement for an independent British nuclear capability The Chemical Weapons Convention Walter Krutzsch, Eric Myjer, Ralf Trapp, 2014-08-07 This book provides an article by article commentary on the text of the Chemical Weapons Convention CWC and its Annexes one of the cornerstone disarmament and arms control agreements It requires the verified elimination of an entire category of weapons of mass destruction and their means of production by all its States Parties within established time lines and that prohibits any activities to develop or otherwise acquire such weapons Cross cutting chapters alongside the detailed commentary by those intimately involved in the development of the Convention assess the history of the efforts to prohibit chemical weapons the adoption of the Convention and the work of the Preparatory Commission the entry into force of the Convention to the Second Review Conference and the need for a new approach for the governance of chemical weapons. Written by those involved in its creation and implementation, this book critically reviews the practices adopted in implementing the Convention as well as the challenges ahead and provides legal commentary on and guidance for its future role. It assesses how to adapt its implementation to advances in science and technology, including the discovery of new chemicals and the development of biochemical non-lethal compounds that influence behaviour. It addresses the legal framework within which the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) takes decisions, both with regard to the OPCW's own regulatory framework and regarding wider international norms, accepted principles and practices. The Commentary draws conclusions on how the prohibitions against chemical weapons can be strengthened and the stature of the OPCW protected. It highlights the involvement of industry and academia in this prohibition, creating a symbiosis between effective governance and the legal framework of the Convention. This book is an authoritative scholarly work for anyone interested in the Chemical Weapons Convention, in international disarmament and arms control law, and in the work of international organizations, and a practical guide for individuals and institutions involved in the Convention's day-to-day implementation.

The Implementation and Effectiveness of International Environmental Commitments David G. Victor, Kal Raustiala, Eugene B. Skolnikoff, 1998

Because environmental problems do not respect borders, their solutions often require international cooperation and agreements. The contributors to this book examine how international environmental agreements are put into practice. Their main concern is effectiveness: the degree to which such agreements lead to changes in behavior that help to solve environmental problems. Their focus is on implementation: the process that turns commitments into action at both domestic and international levels. Implementation is the key to effectiveness because these agreements aim to constrain not just governments but a wide array of actors, including individuals, firms, and agencies whose behavior does not change simply because governments have made international commitments. The book is divided into two parts. Part I looks at international systems for implementation: review through which parties share information, review performance, handle non-compliance, and adjust commitments. Part II looks at implementation at the national level, with particular attention to participation by governmental and nongovernmental actors and to problems in states with economies in transition. The book includes fourteen case studies that cover eight major areas of international environmental regulation: conservation and preservation of fauna and flora, stratospheric ozone depletion, pollution in the Baltic Sea, pollution in the North Sea, trade in hazardous chemicals and pesticides, air pollution in Europe, whaling and marine dumping of nuclear waste.
