with this moving and brilliantly observed study of a woman imprisoned by the passage of time He went on to be hailed as one of the best fiction writers of his generation Alone in her room in a Belfast boarding house Judith Hearne is almost overwhelmed by loneliness Yet she still believes there is a chance for happiness and she waits patiently for the moment when her life will turn from sorrowful longing to joy By chance she meets a man the man and her dreams take on a brighter hue only to be dashed once more With skill and gentle insight Moore depicts the disintegration of Judith Hearne s last illusions Clinging to the bottle for comfort she becomes a tragic figure who speaks frankly about the human condition Though we laugh at her foibles we weep at her plight and share her primal longing for love and connection This touching story was made into a critically acclaimed motion picture in 1987
