The Last Encounter Abhishek Chowdhury Roy,2021-03-19 The Last Encounter is a work of fiction The story is about a burglar who planned a furtive operation to rob an empty house As he broke into the house he was taken aback to find that the family left for vacation leaving a lady presumably their domestic help enslaved in the house He left the house that night but his qualm of conscience compelled him to keep coming back to help the lady escape from the confinement The girl s narrative full of misery made him empathetic towards her The next evening as he returned to the house for a last time to take the lady away he was shocked to realize that the girl mysteriously disappeared from the locked building However he accidentally found a diary written by the girl revealing unknown and agonizing truth The diary narrated how the family she worked for tortured her and always kept her enslaved in her room The burglar determined to find the girl surrendered to the Police along with the diary He also wanted to expose the family members that apparently ill treated their maid Eventually the Police investigation discovered a spine chilling truth that left everybody baffled

Capture-Recapture: Parameter Estimation for Open Animal Populations George A. F. Seber,Matthew R. Schofield,2019-08-13 This comprehensive book rich with applications offers a quantitative framework for the analysis of the various capture recapture models for open animal populations while also addressing associated computational methods The state of our wildlife populations provides a litmus test for the state of our environment especially in light of global warming and the increasing pollution of our land seas and air In addition to monitoring our food resources such as fisheries we need to protect endangered species from the effects of human activities e g rhinos whales or encroachments on the habitat of orangutans Pests must be controlled whether insects or viruses and we need to cope with growing feral populations such as opossums rabbits and pigs Accordingly we need to obtain information about a given population s dynamics concerning e g mortality birth growth breeding sex and migration and determine whether the respective population is increasing static or declining There are many methods for obtaining population information but the most useful and most work intensive is generically known as capture recapture where we mark or tag a representative sample of individuals from the population and follow that sample over time using recaptures resightings or dead recoveries Marks can be natural such as stripes fin profiles and even DNA or artificial such as spots on insects Attached tags can for example be simple bands or streamers or more sophisticated variants such as radio and sonic transmitters To estimate population parameters sophisticated and complex mathematical models have been devised on the basis of recapture information and computer packages This book addresses the analysis of such models It is primarily intended for ecologists and wildlife managers who wish to apply the methods to the types of problems discussed above though it will also benefit researchers and graduate students in ecology Familiarity with basic statistical concepts is essential
