Machine Learning of Natural Language David M.W. Powers, Christopher C.R. Turk, 2012-12-06 We met because we both share the same views of language Language is a living organism produced by neural mechanisms relating in large numbers as a society Language exists between minds as a way of communicating between them not as an autonomous process The logical rules seem to us an epiphenomena of the neural mechanism rather than an essential component in language This view of language has been advocated by an increasing number of workers as the view that language is simply a collection of logical rules has had less and less success People like Yorick Wilks have been able to show in paper after paper that almost any rule which can be devised can be shown to have exceptions The meaning does not lie in the rules David Powers is a teacher of computer science Christopher Turk like many workers who have come into the field of AI Artificial Intelligence was originally trained in literature He moved into linguistics and then into computational linguistics In 1983 he took a sabbatical in Roger Shank's AI project in the Computer Science Department at Yale University Like an earlier visitor to the project John Searle from California Christopher Turk was increasingly uneasy at the view of language which was used at Yale The Hiram Poetry Review, 1984 The New Sensibility Alejandro Llano, 1991 Errors and Intelligence in Computer-Assisted Language Learning Trude Heift, Mathias Schulze, 2007-11-13 This book provides the first comprehensive overview of theoretical issues historical developments and current trends in ICALL Intelligent Computer Assisted Language Learning It assumes a basic familiarity with Second Language Acquisition SLA theory and teaching CALL and linguistics It is of interest to upper undergraduate and or graduate students who study CALL SLA language pedagogy applied linguistics computational linguistics or artificial intelligence as well as researchers with a background in any of these fields

Writing Space J. David Bolter, 1991 This book is a study of the computer as a new technology for reading and writing a technology that may replace the printing press as our principal medium of symbolic communication One of the main subjects of Writing Space is hypertext a technique that allows scientists scholars and creative writers to construct texts that interact with the needs and desires of the reader Bolter explores both the theory and practice of hypertext demonstrating that the computer as hypertext represents a new stage in the long history of writing one that has far reaching implications in the fields of human and artificial intelligence cognitive science philosophy semiotics and literary theory Through a masterful integration of introductory historical illustrative and theoretical material as well as an accompanying diskette containing a sample of hypertextual writing Bolter supports his claim that the computer will carry literacy into a new age the age of electronic text that will emerge from the age of print that is now passing His reflections on literacy in contemporary culture lead him to a compelling conclusion ironically cultural literacy is becoming almost synonymous with computer literacy
