

DIFFERENCE THRESHOLD

A difference threshold is the lowest amount of change that an individual can detect. It is measured in terms of how many "just noticeable differences" (JNDs) exist between two stimuli.

EXAMPLE: VISION

Subtle shifts of coloring, perceivable to the naked eye, are known as visual thresholds. If two colors are close enough in hue and value, they might not be discernible to the human eye. The minimally perceptible difference between these two similar colors is known as the difference threshold.

ABSOLUTE VS DIFFERENCE

- Absolute threshold: the lowest level of stimulation a person can detect. It is useful for measuring a person's sensitivity to stimuli.
- Difference threshold: the minimum amount of change in a stimulus that an individual can detect.

MI The aim of this special issue is to provide a forum for a discussion of MI covering some crucial themes 1 ways to assess and deal with measurement non invariance 2 Bayesian and IRT methods employing the concept of approximate measurement invariance and 3 new or adjusted approaches for testing MI to fit increasingly complex statistical models and specific characteristics of survey data The special issue started with a kick off meeting where all potential contributors shared ideas on potential papers This expert workshop was organized at Utrecht University in The Netherlands and was funded by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research NWO VENI 451 11 008 After the kick off meeting the authors submitted their papers all of which were reviewed by experts in the field The papers in the eBook are listed in alphabetical order but in the editorial the papers are introduced thematically Although it is impossible to cover all areas of relevant research in the field of MI papers in this eBook provide insight on important aspects of measurement invariance We hope that the discussions included in this special issue will stimulate further research on MI and facilitate further discussions to support the understanding of the role of MI in multi item surveys
