Sun Road:

Public Roads, 2005 Culture, Technology, and the Creation of America's National Parks Richard A.

Grusin, 2004-04-22 Richard Grusin's innovative study investigates how the establishment of national parks participated in the production of American national identity after the Civil War. The creation of America's national parks is usually seen as an uncomplicated act of environmental preservation. Grusin argues instead that parks must be understood as complex cultural technologies for the reproduction of nature as landscape art. He explores the origins of America's three major parks: Yosemite, Yellowstone, and Grand Canyon in relation to other forms of landscape representation including photography, mapping, travel writing, and fiction. Draft General Management Plan, Environmental Impact Statement United States National Park Service, 1998

Moon Glacier National Park Becky Lomax, 2009-02-10 Writer, editor, and avid outdoorswoman Becky Lomax offers an insider's perspective on Glacier National Park where she once worked shredding lettuce in the kitchen so she could hike nearly 300 miles of park trails during her free time. From hiking through multi-color meadows filled with wildflowers to observing the Sperry Glacier, a victim of global warming that will vanish in less than two decades, Lomax knows the best ways to enjoy the park's one million acres of wilderness. She also includes unique trip strategies for travelers with specific interests and restrictions, including a Wildlife Watching tour and a Whirlwind One Day in Glacier tour. Whether it's biking up Going to the Sun Road or watching a grizzly forage in huckleberries, Moon Glacier National Park gives travelers the tools they need to create a more personal and memorable experience. Glacier National Park (N.P.), a Portion of Waterton-Glacier

Going-To-The-Sun Road Adolph Gabbay, 2021-03-09 Going to the Sun Road is a scenic mountain road in the Rocky Mountains of the western United States in Glacier National Park in Montana. The Going to the Sun Road is rightfully recognized as one of the most spectacular alpine highways in the world and certainly among those in the United States. The landscape is one of peerless beauty, but the road itself is an engineering masterpiece. In 1910, Glacier National Park was created in that million-acre swath of mountains, lakes, and glaciers that the great naturalist called the Crown of the Continent. Soon plans were being made for a road that would take visitors into the heart of this amazing place. The result was the Going to the Sun Road, which has been the centerpiece of the visitor experience in Glacier since it was formally dedicated in 1933.

Dark Nature Richard Schneider, 2016-10-04 In The Ecological Thought, eco-philosopher Timothy Morton has argued for the inclusion of dark ecology in our thinking about nature. Dark ecology, he argues, puts hesitation, uncertainty, irony, and thoughtfulness back into ecological thinking. The ecological thought, he says, should include negativity and irony, ugliness, and horror. Focusing on this concept of dark ecology and its invitation to add an anti-pastoral perspective to ecocriticism, this collection of essays on American literature and culture offers examples of how a vision of nature's darker side can create a fuller understanding of humanity's relation to nature. Included are essays on canonical American literature and new voices in American literature and on non print American media This is the first collection of essays applying the dark ecology principle to American literature Selected Readings in Anthropology University of California, Berkeley.
