Introduction

The extension of market ties beyond national boundaries contrasts with liberalism due to the international nature rather than the state form. Through the use of the principle, this disagreement may be handled in two methodologies: by restricting international and commercial relationships or by internationalizing political institutions. As to comprehend the study's concerns, the research will call attention to unsustainable speculations of some globalization detractors, such as multiple Balkan writers. However, entering the EU will nearly completely globalize Serbia and Croatia's economies (Takao 88). The EU is now virtually the whole globe for them, and it will be considered so after the nations join. Such anti-globalization Europeanism might be understood if democracy was vital to them as a market competition regulator and a corrector of social inequalities.

However, admission to the EU entails globalization of all national markets. As a result, an opponent of globalization in Serbia or Croatia should oppose their nation's entry into the EU. Similarly, proponents of free trade favor EU integration and are hostile to the concept of Nation states. Although it seems evident that protection must violate at least some human rights, it is remarkable that some leftist critics of globalization are also defenders of human rights across the globe (Sugow et al. 95). On the other hand, right-wing proponents of globalization frequently outline a weakness for the nation state, which can only be speculated as a method of interference with market operation. Hence
