Transnationalist Capitalist Class

Bruce Morrison

Transnationalist Capitalist Class:

The Transnational Capitalist Class Leslie Sklair, 2001 While most of the popular and academic debates explore ideas of globalization The Transnational Capitalist Class goes one step further and provides theoretically informed empirical research to explain and deconstruct the process of globalization as seen by the corporations themselves Using personal interviews with executives and managers from over eighty Fortune Global 500 corporations as well as already published sources Sklair demonstrates how globalization works from the perspective of those who control and oppose the major globalizing corporations and their allies in government and the media The book explores two major crises of globalization class polarization and ecological sustainability and shows how the transnational capitalist class attempts to resolve these crises and evaluates its own success and failure Sklair's unique approach brings a fresh perspective to what has become a key debate of our time

Global Capitalism and Transnational Class Formation Jason Struna, 2016-03-17 The global capitalism perspective is a unique research program focused on understanding relatively recent developments in worldwide social economic and political practices related to globalization At its core it seeks to contextualize the rearticulation of nation states and broad geographic regions into highly interdependent networks of production and distribution and in so doing explain consequent changes in social relations within and between countries in the contemporary era The present volume contributes to this effort by focusing on social class formation across borders via the processes and actors that make globalized capitalism possible The essays presented here offer a wide range of emphases in terms of the particular lenses and evidence they use They cover such topics as the emergence of a transnational capitalist class based fascist regime responding to the structural crises of global capitalism as well as the links between global class formation and the US racial project as it relates to electoral politics and demographic changes in the US South This book was published as a special issue of Globalizations

The Making of a Transnational Capitalist Class William K. Carroll, 2013-04-04 Throughout the world there has been a growing wave of interest in global corporate power and the rise of a transnational capitalist class triggered by economic and political transformations that have blurred national borders and disembedded corporate business from national domiciles Using social network analysis William Carroll maps the changing field of power generated by elite relations among the world's largest corporations and related political organizations Carroll provides an in depth analysis that spans the three decades of the late 20th and early 21st century when capitalist globalization attained unprecedented momentum propelled both by the transnationalization of accumulation and by the political paradigm of transnational neoliberalism This has been an era in which national governments have deregulated capital international institutions such as the World Trade Organization and the World Economic Forum have gained prominence and production and finance have become more fully transnational increasing the structural power of capital over communities and workers Within this context of transformation the book charts the making of a transnational capitalist class reaching beyond national forms of capitalist class organization into a global field but facing spirited opposition from below in an ongoing struggle that is also a struggle over alternative global futures

Transnational Conflicts William I. Robinson, 2003-10-16 Capitalism has disrupted the conventional pattern of revolutionary upheaval civil wars and pacification in Central America William Robinson maps the shape of change in the region

Globalization and Transnational Capitalism in Asia and Oceania Jeb Sprague, 2015-12-15 News headlines warn of rivalries and competing nations across Asia and the Pacific even as powerful new cross border relations form as never before This book looks behind the Asia Pacific curtain at the new forms of social economic and political integration taking place through a global capitalism that is rife with contradictions inequality and crisis We are moved beyond traditional conceptualizations of the inter state system with its nation state competition as the core organizing principle of world capitalism and the principal institutional framework that shapes the makeup of global social forces These important studies examine and debate over how there is a growing transnationality of material economic relations in the global era as well as an emerging transnationality of many social and class relations How does transnational capitalist class fractions new middle strata and labor undergird globalization in Asia and Oceania How have states and institutions become entwined with such processes This book provides insight into a field of dynamic change

Globalizing the Caribbean Jeb Sprague, 2020-08-17 The beautiful Caribbean basin is fertile ground for a study of capitalism past and present Transnational corporations move money and labor around the region as national regulations are reworked to promote conditions benefiting private capital Globalizing the Caribbean offers a probing account of the region s experience of economic globalization while considering gendered and racialized social relations and the frequent exploitation of workers Jeb Sprague focuses on the social and material nature of this new era in the history of world capitalism He combines an historical overview of capitalism in the region with theoretical analysis backed by case studies Sprague elaborates upon the role of class formation and the restructuring of local states He considers both U S hegemony and how various upsurges from below and crises occur He examines the globalization of the cruise ship and mining businesses looks at the growth of migrant labor and reverse flow of remittances and describes the evolving role of export processing and supranational associations In doing so Sprague shows how transnationally oriented elites have come to rule the Caribbean and how capitalist globalization in the region occurs alongside shifting political institutional and organizational dynamics

Transnational Capital and Class Fractions Bob Jessop, Henk Overbeek, 2018-08-14 Emerging in the late 1970s the Amsterdam School s AS most distinctive contribution to international political economy was the systematic incorporation of the Marxian concept of capital fractions into the study of international politics Contending that politics in advanced capitalist countries takes place in a fundamentally transnationalized space in which the distinction between domestic and international has blurred it shows how in this space politics is structured by competing comprehensive concepts of control Presenting a concise and instructive introduction to the origins development and significance of this distinct approach this book provides a unique overview of the School s contemporary significance for the field Offering a new generation of critical scholars the opportunity to become acquainted at first hand with some of the contributions that have shaped the work of the AS the contributions present critical commentaries discussing the merits and shortcomings of the AS from a variety of perspectives and undertake a self critical evaluation of the current place and value of the AS framework in the broader landscape of approaches to the study of contemporary capitalism Written for scholars and students alike it will be of interest to those working in international political economy international relations and political science political sociology European studies and branches of academic economics such as regulation theory and institutional economics Transnational Welfare Yukyung Chung,2008

Transnational Classes and International Relations Kees van der Pijl,1998 Presenting an analysis of class formation in the global political economy this text studies the growth of an integrated transnational capitalist class from Freemasonry in the late 1800s to contemporary planning groups with a class orientation The Social Contract ,1997 The Visible Power of the Transnational Capitalist Class Ali Saqer,2015 Sociological Abstracts Leo P.
