Theory And Meaning:

John Dewey's Theory of Art, Experience, and Nature Thomas M. Alexander, 2012-02-16 Thomas Alexander shows that the primary guiding concern of Dewey's philosophy is his theory of aesthetic experience. He directly challenges those critics most notably Stephen Pepper and Benedetto Croce who argued that this area is the least consistent part of Dewey's thought. The author demonstrates that the fundamental concept in Dewey's system is that of experience and that paradigmatic treatment of experience is to be found in Dewey's analysis of aesthetics and art. The confusions resulting from the neglect of this orientation have led to prolonged misunderstandings, eventual neglect, and unwarranted popularity for ideas at odds with the genuine thrust of Dewey's philosophical concerns. By exposing the underlying aesthetic foundations of Dewey's philosophy, Alexander aims to rectify many of these errors, generating a fruitful new interest in Dewey.

Theory and Meaning David Papineau, 1979 This book is concerned with those aspects of the theory of meaning for scientific terms that are relevant to questions about the evaluation of scientific theories. The contemporary debate about theory choice in science is normally presented as a conflict between two sets of ideas. The book shows that there is no real contest here; that the two sets of ideas are in fact quite compatible.

Michael Dummett and the Theory of Meaning Darryl Gunson, 2018-08-17 Published in 1998, this book argues that in recent decades Anglo-American philosophy of language has been captivated by the idea that the key to progress in this area of philosophy lies in investigating the possibility of constructing a theory of meaning. This text provides an in-depth critique of the Davidsonian suggestion that Tarski's work on formal definitions of truth is an important element in allowing us to understand the form that the theory of meaning should take.

Selected Lexical and Grammatical Issues in the Meaning-text Theory Leo Wanner, Igor Aleksandrov, Meluk, 2007-01-01 The Meaning Text Theory (MTT) is a lexicon-centred and dependency-based theory for the description of language using a holistic model that incorporates semantics, syntax, morphology, and lexis. This volume, prepared on the occasion of Igor Mel'uk's 70th birthday, offers a cross-section of the current advances in MTT and its applications. The first part of the book focuses on lexical phenomena that are still largely neglected in mainstream linguistics: sound symbolism as manifested by ideophones and idiosyncratic lexical relations as manifested by lexical functions (LFs). In particular, LFs are addressed from different angles, including the introduction of new standard LFs, the argument structure and semantic decomposition of lexical relations captured by LFs, automatic recognition of LF instances in corpora, and the use of LFs in terminology and natural language processing. The second part of the book deals with such prominent model-oriented issues as semantic paraphrasing in MTT, the role of phrase structure in MTT, and syntactic analysis within MTT.

Berkeley's Doctrine of Signs Manuel Fasko, Peter West, 2024-04-22 This volume focuses on Berkeley's doctrine of signs. The doctrine of signs refers to the use that Berkeley makes of a phenomenon that is central to a great deal of everyday discourse: one whereby certain perceivable entities are made to stand in for, as signs of, something else. Things signified might be other perceivable entities, or they might also be unperceivable notions such as the meanings of words From his earliest published work A New Theory of Vision in 1710 to those works written towards the end of life including Alciphron in 1732 Berkeley is at pains to emphasise the crucial role that sign usage particularly but not only in language plays in human life Berkeley also connects sign usage to our human relationship with God an issue that was right of the heart of his philosophical project The contributions in this volume explore the myriad ways that Berkeley built on such insights to better understand a range of philosophical issues issues of epistemology language perception mental representation mathematics science and theology The aim of this volume is to establish that the doctrine of signs can be seen as one of the unifying themes of Berkeley s philosophy What s more this theme is one which spans his whole philosophical corpus not just his best known works like the Principles and the Three Dialogues but also his works on science mathematics and theology

Theory of the History Classroom Manuel Köster,Holger Thünemann,Meik Zülsdorf-Kersting,2022-03-10 This volume proposes a theory of history education in formal classroom settings Specifically it aims to outline how the particular setting of the classroom interacts with domain specific processes of historical thinking The theory rests on the notion that formal school education is a communicative and social system while historical thinking occurs in the psychological system of a person s historical consciousness In the complex interaction of these systems historical thinking emotions communication media and language are of particular importance Drawing upon educational theory as well as the theory of history this theory of the history classroom provides a framework as well as a solid foundation for future empirical research both for developing research questions as well as for interpreting findings
