

Talking to a child about death

Use simple language

Avoid using complex medical terms or euphemisms that may confuse the child.

Reassure

Reassure the child they are safe. Children may worry that they or a loved one will die too. Validate their worry and let them know how you are taking care of them and yourself.

Create a Memorial

Helping a child make a memorial provides a space for grieving and remembering their person.

Be Honest

Children can sense when something is wrong. Explain that the person has died and won't be coming back.

Embrace Emotions

Children may react in different ways to the death including sadness, anger, or confusion. Allow them to express their emotions and offer support.

Allow Questions

Children may have a lot of questions about death. Some may feel awkward and difficult to answer. It's okay to tell a child you don't know.

Seek Support

If you or your child is struggling with the loss seek support from a therapist or a support group.

Healing a Child's Grieving Heart Alan Wolfelt, 2001-04-01 A compassionate resource for friends parents relatives teachers volunteers and caregivers this series offers suggestions to help the grieving cope with the loss of a loved one Often people do not know what to say or what not to say to someone they know who is mourning this series teaches that the most important thing a person can do is listen have compassion be there for support and do something helpful This volume addresses what to expect from grieving young people and how to provide safe outlets for children to express emotion Included in each book are tested sensitive ideas for carpe diem actions that people can take right this minute while still remaining supportive and honoring the mourner's loss

Ten Steps for Parenting Your

Grieving Children Anne Hatcher Berenberg, Vicki Scalzitti, Jack Cain, 2011 Healing a Parent's Grieving Heart Alan Wolfelt, 2002-04-01 Presenting simple yet highly effective methods for coping and healing this book provides answers and relief to parents trying to deal with the loss of a child It offers 100 practical action oriented tips for embracing grief such as writing a letter to the child who has died spending time with others who will listen to stories of grief creating a memory book box or Web site and remembering others who may still be struggling with the death The guide also addresses common problems for grieving parents including dealing with marital stress helping surviving siblings dealing with hurtful advice and exploring feelings of guilt This compassionate resource will aid parents who have been through the death of a child whether the passing happened recently or many years ago whether the child was young or an adult A Child's View of Grief Alan Wolfelt, 2004-04-01 This concise resource for parents of grieving kids explores several key principles for helping children cope with grief and offers ways to create an emotional environment filled with love and acceptance It answers common questions such as What should I say to children when someone they love dies and Should young children attend funerals This guide also identifies and explains typical behaviors thoughts and feelings of grieving kids and offers adults tips for responding to them A Parent's Guide to Raising Grieving Children Phyllis R. Silverman, Madelyn Kelly, 2009-04-02 When children lose someone they love they lose part of their very identity Life as they knew it will never be quite the same The world that once felt dependable and safe may suddenly seem a frightening uncertain place where nobody understands what they're feeling In this deeply sympathetic book Phyllis R Silverman and Madelyn Kelly offer wise guidance on virtually every aspect of childhood loss from living with someone who's dying to preparing the funeral from explaining death to a two year old to managing the moods of a grieving teenager from dealing with people who don't understand to learning how and where to get help from friends therapists and bereavement groups from developing a new sense of self to continuing a relationship with the person who died Throughout the authors advocate an open honest approach suggesting that our instinctive desire to protect children from the reality of death may be more harmful than helpful Children want you to acknowledge what is happening to help them understand it the authors suggest In this way they learn to trust their own ability to make sense out of what they see Drawing on groundbreaking research into what bereaved children are really experiencing and quoting real conversations with parents and children who have walked that road the book allows readers to see what others have learned from mourning and surviving the death of a loved one In a culture where grief is so often invisible and misunderstood the wisdom derived from such first hand experience is invaluable Filled with compassion and common sense A Parent's Guide to Raising Grieving Children Rebuilding Your Family after the Loss of a Loved One offers readers a wealth of solace and sound advice and even where one might least expect it a measure of hope Grief and Your Child Bob Kellemen, 2021-08-23 When your child faces the loss of someone close their world no longer feels safe Grief and its aftermath take us all by surprise but even more so children who don't have the words or tools to face grief and can respond
