Strategies for Collective Minimalist Mobile Robots Chris Melhuish, 2001-04-11. Many might think that the robot industry is not ready yet to build an abstract painter with a political theory. Perhaps Melhuish, an engineering U of the West of England, agrees because what he talks about instead is the idea of getting a whole lot of dumb robots to work together to accomplish something smart. The inspiration for the approach are social insects which are limited individually yet can as a group achieve remarkable feats. He presents minimalist strategies for controlling and coordinating such a system in the domains of moving through the environment, creating work gangs of a desired size, and acting on the environment. End-of-life Care Joan McCarthy, 2011. This title offers an ethical framework for end of life decision making in healthcare settings. Its objective is to foster and support ethically and legally sound clinical practice in end of life treatment and care in Ireland.

West's Federal Practice Digest, 2003.

Living Lightly Walter Schwarz, Dorothy Schwarz, 1998. An enthralling account of the authors' travels across four continents among people living lightly on the earth: more self-reliant, more neighborly, more in tune with their environment, less stressed than the majority who strive for success in the consumer economy. In Britain and Europe, Canada, and the USA, New England, Philadelphia, Tennessee, Seattle, Australia, India, and Japan, the authors share the lives and homes of lifestyle pioneers who believe they have created a better model for the 21st century.

Confidence and Changes Managing Social Protection in the New Millennium Danny Pieters, 2001-12-06. The confidence of wage earners who depend on an administrative safety net to protect them from loss of income has virtually disappeared. Social exclusion and poverty have become inescapable threats for the average worker. It was to tackle this enormously important issue that the European Institute of Social Security (EISS), a leading multidisciplinary research group dedicated to exploring the frontiers of social security, met in June 2000 in Gandteborg in Sweden. Twenty members of the Institute prepared papers for delivery at the conference, all of which are now printed in this book. These papers include discussion of such elements as the following: the shift in emphasis from compensation for loss of income to a more preventive approach based on income security measures against social exclusion enacted by the European Union; the meaning of the term employability as revealed in EU Member States National Action

Plans NAPs the growing pressure on beneficiaries to perform rather than conform the interplay in international law between human rights and social security labour market participation according to gender and educational level labour market participation among families with young children the promise of a federal social security system in Europe and objective standards vs moral hazard in labour market insurance Various reform initiatives including the controversial debate on private sector funding are also covered making Confidence and Changes the most wide ranging and provocative book on the subject available today The Idea of the Modern State Gregor McLennan, David Held, Stuart Hall, 1984 Ecologies, Environments, and Energy Systems in Art of the 1960s and 1970s James Nisbet, 2014-02-14 About environmental art and ecological aspects of art in the 1960s and 1970s
