Stonehenge Landscapes:

Stonehenge Landscapes Sally Exon, Vincent L. Gaffney, Ann Woodward, Ron Yorston, 2000 Stonehenge Landscapes is the largest digital analysis of the archaeological landscape and monuments of Stonehenge ever attempted. The study uses data from more than 1200 monuments. The contents of the Stonehenge barrows are collated for the first time and presented in a series of appendices. The result of this endeavour is a major phenomenological study of the development of the Stonehenge landscape from the Mesolithic to the Early Bronze Age. The authors explain how the landscape emerged over time, the developing relationships between the public monuments and how these monuments created new spaces for social action in prehistory. The way monuments were used and perceived is discussed and the results are demonstrated through interactive software which displays GIS data, animations of movement along monuments and through the landscape as well as 3 dimensional views of the landscape, panoramic photographs and videos. Uniquely, the reader can access all the data through their web browser, permitting them to perform their own studies and produce their own reading of the landscape of Stonehenge. Stonehenge Landscapes is a radical step forward in archaeological publishing, integrating computing and phenomenological study, permitting new insights into a well known landscape and allowing the reader to participate in the study and interpretation of the results. The Stonehenge Landscapes CD includes a software program to display various data sets. The copyright owner of this program is Ronald Yorston. Archaeopress holds a licence to distribute the program as part of the electronic version of Stonehenge Landscapes.

Landscape Barbara Bender, 2004-11-01 This book is about the complexity and power of landscape. The authors, geographers, anthropologists and archaeologists, explore landscape as something subjective that alters through time and space and that is created by people through their experience and contact with the world around them.

Landscape of the Megaliths Mark Gillings, Joshua Pollard, Rick Peterson, David Wheatley, 2010-03-01 This volume describes the results of the Longstones Project, a joint universities programme of excavation and survey designed to develop a fuller understanding of the context and dynamics of monument construction in the later Neolithic 3rd millennium BC of the Avebury region, Wiltshire. Several elements of this internationally important prehistoric monument complex were investigated: an early mid 3rd millennium BC enclosure at Beckhampton, the recently re-discovered Beckhampton Avenue and Longstones Cove, a section of the West Kennet Avenue, the Falkner's stone circle and the Cove within Avebury's Northern Inner Circle. The research sheds new light on the complexities and development of this monument-rich area and consideration is given to the questions of how and why ceremonial centres such as that at Avebury came into being in the 3rd millennium BC. The importance of understanding the agency, the affective and perceived inherent qualities of materials and landscapes is stressed and the unusual character of the Wessex monument complexes is highlighted by comparison with the format and sequences of other ceremonial centres in southern Britain. The second part of the monograph tracks the later post-prehistoric lives of Avebury's megalithic monuments, including a detailed account of the early 18th century records of the Beckhampton Avenue made by the antiquary William Stukeley

Neolithic Landscapes Peter Topping, 2002 Reprint of another classic Neolithic Studies Group volume It is a sign of the intellectual health of a specialist study group that its deliberations can generate collections of papers of general interest The topical issue of landscape is addressed although with the added complication of attempting to focus on the domestic as opposed to ceremonial aspects of Neolithic life

The Neolithic of the Irish Sea Chris Fowler, 2015-03-31 This collection of 24 papers aims to reconsider the nature and significance of the Irish Sea as an area of cultural interaction during the Neolithic period The traditional character of work across this region has emphasised the existence of prehistoric contact with sea routes criss crossing between Ireland the Isle of Man Anglesey and the British mainland A parallel course of investigation however has demonstrated that the British and Irish Neolithics were in many ways different with distinct indigenous patterns of activity and social practices The recent emphasis on regional studies has further produced evidence for parallel yet different processes of cultural change taking place throughout the British Isles as a whole This volume brings together some of these regional perspectives and compares them across the Irish Sea area The authors consider new ways to explain regional patterning in the use of material objects and relate them to past practices and social strategies Were there practices that were shared across the Irish Sea area linking different styles of monuments and material culture or were the media intrinsic to the message The volume is based on papers presented at a conference held at the University of Manchester in 2002
